John D Shrugs Off U.S. Critics

Cuban Policy Same As Rest of NATO

OTTAWA (UPI)—Prime Minister John Diefenbaker indicated yesterday that Canada was being criticized in the United States for following the same policy toward Cuba as its NATO allies were following.

While declining comment on the severance of U.S. diplomatic relations with the Castro regime, Diefenbaker noted that relations remained intact between Cuba and Britain, France, Belgium and other NATO members.

ALL OTHERS

"We're still in the position of all other nations in NATO," he told newsmen following a cabinet meeting. "They have the same relationship with the U.S. as Canada, and up to the present time their relations with Cuba have been the same as ours.

"If changes become necessary in the relationship of our countries," he added, "the changes will be made."

IN LINE

Diefenbaker's remarks came amid speculation that the United States will try to get Canada to alter its relations with Cuba, bringing them more in line with those of the United States.

Diefenbaker made a similar sattement in Saskatoon Dec. 28 when he was explaining why Canada did not follow the U.S. lead and place an embargo on shipments to Cuba. He said then that Canada was following the same course as the European members of NATO.

U.S. QUARTERS

Criticism in many U.S. quarters of Canada's relations with Cuba was touched off last month by the welcome given a 10-man Cuban trade mission seeking goods in Canada formerly bought from the United States.

Diefenbaker's latest remarks were interpreted as rejection of the U.S. criticism on grounds that similar criticism has not been levelled against other NATO allies.

External Affairs Minister Howard Green, who said last night Canada would be "only too willing" to help patch up relations between the United States and Cuba, declined comment.

Kennedy Stands Aloof

NEW YORK (UPI)—President-elect John F. Kennedy refused to say whether he agreed with President Eisenhower's decision to break diplomatic relations with Cuba.

"The responsibility rests with the present administration until Jan. 20," Kennedy said.

76 Americans Flee Cuba On Ferryboat

HAVANA (UPI) — Seventy-six Americans, the bulk of the U.S. embassy staff here, left Cuba aboard a ferryboat for West Palm Beach, Fla.

Red Radio Strikes Out

Hands Off U.S. Base Ike Warns Cubans

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Eisenhower yesterday followed up the diplomatic break with Cuba by warning the Castro regime to keep hands off the $70,000,000 U.S. naval base at Guantanamo Bay.

This country's determination to keep the base, called the "Pearl Harbor of the Caribbean," was expressed in a terse White House statement:

"The termination of our diplomatic and consular relations with Cuba has no effect on the status of our naval station at Guantanamo. The treaty relations under which we maintain the naval station may not be arrogated without the consent of the United States."

Guantanamo, with its 10,000 sailors, marines, civilian workers and dependents, appeared a likely target if Cuban Premier Fidel Castro wanted to stir up more trouble.

Bitter Charges Traded In Hectic UN Session

UNITED NATIONS (AP)—Demonstrators for and against Cuban Prime Minister Fidel Castro clashed outside UN headquarters Wednesday as the United States and Cuba traded bitter charges in the security council.

At least one man was hurt and several others were spattered with eggs and tomatoes.

The United States told the 11-nation council Castro was turning Cuba into a springboard for Communist subversion of the Western hemisphere. Cuba charged the United States was about to attack her.

Chile and Ecuador introduced a resolution that would have the council:

1. Recommend that Cuba and the U.S. try to resolve their differences.

2. Urge UN members not to take any action.

28,000 Go Back To School Today

It's back to school today for more than 28,000 youngsters in 79 schools within 20 miles of Victoria. There will be a full day of instruction in all grades, after the two-week Christmas vacation. Secondary school students can look forward to receiving report cards on Christmas examinations in the next few days.

Survivor Relaxes—At Last

Soft Mud Lifesaver

* * *

Pinned by a tractor that slipped on a ramp and rolled over on him, 18-year-old Albert Smith of 4450 Tyndall Avenue was saved from death yesterday by six inches of soft mud.

Then he lived through 20 fear-filled minutes before rescue, expecting the heavy machine to become a blazing pyre.

ANY MINUTE

"It scared hell out of me," he said last night. "I was afraid it was going to catch fire any minute."

"It was a narrow escape."

He came through the ordeal with a broken wrist, extensive bruises and back burns from the gasoline that leaked from the tractor's fuel tank.

CONDITION GOOD

Royal Jubilee Hospital officials listed his condition as good.

Smith was unloading a caterpillar tractor from a truck on the Central Saanich farm of G. A. Vantreight about 9.45 a.m. when the tractor slipped off the loading ramp and pinned him underneath.

His legs were held by the tractor seat and track shield and the rest of his body lay beneath the seat with about six inches of clearance.

SAVED LIFE

"Only that space and the six inches of soft mud beneath saved his life," said Central Saanich police.

Members of the Central Saanich volunteer fire department were called and took as much of the weight as they could until a second tractor, owned by Vantreight's neighbor Jack Looy, could pull the overturned "cat" from Smith's body.

HELD AWAY

During most of the 20 minutes it took, another volunteer held the vehicle's sparking battery away from the gasoline flowing from the tank.

Once the overturned tractor was pulled free, firemen rushed young Smith to hospital.

Canada Combats Arctic Sub Fear

OTTAWA (CP) — The Defence Research Board said Wednesday it is preparing to send expeditions to the Arctic this year for research into detection of submarines operating under the ice.

Mounting of these expeditions was the most significant activity in 1960 at the Pacific Naval Laboratory at Esquimalt, the board said in a review of its work last year.

RADAR BLOW

Ability of submarines to operate under ice, demonstrated dramatically by U.S. nuclear subs, concerns the defence department, which fears hostile submarines could knock out Arctic radar lines or bombard central North America from Hudson Bay.

Informed sources said object of the expeditions is to determine if shore based or underwater detection devices anchored to cables can be installed to listen for undersea craft in the straits dividing Canada's Arctic islands.

SONAR USE

The expeditions will explore water conditions under the ice to determine if Sonar can be used as it is in the open Atlantic and Pacific.

Freighter In Distress

MANILA (AP)—The American freighter Portland Trader was reported in distress pounding against a reef in the Southern Philippines' Sulu Sea.

TAX ASSESSMENTS STARTLE OAK BAY

Irate Property Owners Bombard Municipal Hall

"Hundreds" of irate Oak Bay property owners bombarded municipal officials yesterday with complaints about increased land assessments for 1961.

Inequalities in re-assessment were charged by some landowners while others protested increases of as much as 115 per cent.

OTHERS HOME-FREE

Other Greater Victoria municipalities could afford to relax. They went through their reassessment agonies in previous years.

One Oak Bay resident, retired and living in a three-roomed cottage, said last night his assessment for land only was raised to $2,800 from $1,200.

NEVER STOPPED

Phone calls and personal visits to the municipal hall "never stopped all day," clerk E. H. Hart said last night. Properties most affected are those in older parts of Oak Bay.

Situation was complicated as both the assessor, Griffith Jones, and his assistant, Collin Wyatt, were absent on sick leave.

Staff of the tax office handled most complaints with some being referred to Mr. Hart.

REEVE BUSY

Reeve George Murdoch also reported last night he had received "a lot of complaints" during the day. Assessment notices were received by property owners Tuesday.

Reeve Murdoch announced Tuesday night that assessments had been increased by some $2,000,000 over-all.

TOO LOW

Provincial assessment commissioner K. E. B. Wildman said last night his department had advised Oak Bay assessors that assessments on land were low in some of the older districts of Oak Bay.

The amount of increase in assessments — $2,000,000 — was set by the assessors, he said.

A court of revision will be appointed soon by the provincial government to hear appeals against assessments in all Greater Victoria municipalities.

SEATO Shuns Laos Issue

BANGKOK, Thailand (Reuters)—The Southeast Asia Treaty Organization maintained a cautious stand in a conference here Wednesday on the menacing civil war in neighboring Laos.

At the same time, a letter from Laos' ousted neutralist premier, Prince Souvanna Phouma, published in Moscow, called for an international conference to end strife in his country. The letter appeared in the Soviet government newspaper Izvestia. Souvanna is in Cambodia.

INVASION PROOF

Secretary-General Pote Sarasin of SEATO said here that SEATO could not take action in Laos unless it had proof of a Communist invasion of Laos by ground forces.

Sarasin said there were no doubts that Russian planes based in Communist North Viet Nam were supplying rebels in northern and Central Laos.

SUPPORT U.S.

In London, a foreign office spokesman said Britain could support United States statements that Russian planes were supplying left-wing Laotian rebels.

Observers saw SEATO's cautious approach as a concession to Britain and France, which both have called for conciliation among the warring factions by an international truce commission.

OTTAWA (CP)—The Canadian government has received no request from the Laotian government for the resumption of the supervisory truce commission, Prime Minister Diefenbaker said yesterday.

VIENTIANE, Laos (UPI)—The government announced yesterday it had captured a vital road junction in central Laos from the Communists. At the same time it indicated a possible weakening of its military position by hinting that Britain and Russia should act to restore peace in Laos.

Belgium Still Boiling

BRUSSELS (UPI) — Police broke up a march on Parliament by 300 demonstrators Wednesday while Socialist deputies demanded the resignation of Premier Gaston Eyskens.

The clash between police and demonstrators erupted at the end of a march by 10,000 strikers through the centre of Brussels.

UPROARIOUS

The uproarious session took place behind the protection of hundreds of paratroopers and gendarmes who brought up tanks, armored cars and trucks and erected barbed wire barricades in fear of the march.

The session was marked by demands for new elections, fierce personal attacks on the premier and Socialist criticism of the government for spending too much money on royal palaces.

SECOND DAY

It was the second day of debate on the government's explosive austerity bill. Eyskens was silent; the debate resumes today.

At least 60 rioters were arrested to bring the total jailed since the beginning of the crisis to more than 200. The government claimed a gradual drift back to work but Socialists claimed the strike front by 500,000 to 600,000 workers remained solid.

Rescuers Rescued —No Matter What

AUCKLAND, N.Z. (CP)—When the stroller in which they were taking their baby brother for an outing ran down a bank into three feet of water, the eight-year old twin sons of a New Zealand farmer knew what to do. They had learned all about it as Wolf Cubs.

Wet and woebegone, they returned home and explained to their mother: "We tried to give him artificial respiration, mum. But he kept getting up and walking away."

Tree Blaze Kills Three

KINGSTON, Ont. (CP) — Two small children and their mother died Wednesday night as a result of a fire which started when a spark ignited a Christmas tree in their two-storey frame home.

Health Insurance in Canada Liberals' Pledge

OTTAWA (UPI)—The Liberal party last night pledged to introduce federal health insurance in Canada.

The pledge was made in an address by opposition leader Lester B. Pearson and former Liberal associate defence minister Paul Hellyer.

In outlining future party intentions Hellyer (L-Trinity) accused Prime Minister John Diefenbaker of pulling "a fast trick on us by announcing a royal commission" on health insurance.

"But he didn't really pull the wool over the eyes of any one," Hellyer added. "Everyone knows that the Liberal party—the party which introduced every social security measure we have federally—will be the party that will introduce health insurance too."

Pearson, who introduced Hellyer as the chairman of the Liberal party's massive "rally" to be held here next week, unofficially started the debate on Finance Minister Donald Fleming's "baby budget" brought down in the House of Commons just before Christmas.

ALL ABOARD

With G. E. Mortimore

EVERY few months I go through the farce of tidying my desk. I stagger over to a large table with one armful after another of papers, and dump them there, in mounds.

Then I dig into each mound like an achaeologist exploring a midden, and I sort the contents into categories: "Notes for stories," "Things that must be returned at once to their owners," "Things that might come in useful," "Letters and bills" and "miscellaneous."

By the time the sorting is finished, there are half a dozen mounds, each representing a category.

Then I carefully replace these mounds on my desk. I don't know how it happens, but after this process is complete, my desk looks even more cluttered than it did before.

* * *

The waste basket is brimming with stuff I have thrown away—publicity releases, pamphlets, newspapers, scribbled notes that I can't read. I suppose it represents many trees, reduced to paper.

The mind rebels at the thought of the effort that has gone into making these documents—all to be thrown away.

But in spite of all that I have discarded, the total of paper seems to have grown—just as though it were living tissue that had the power to reproduce itself.

Anyway, some order has been brought to the desk. Although there seems to be even more paper than before, the features of the landscape have been re-arranged.

Sad to say, this state of affairs doesn't last.

* * *

Someone brings papers for me to read, and dumps them on the mountain range of documents, knocking the tops off the peaks and causing landslides.

Someone else borrows a magazine from the magazine pile and dumps it back in the wrong place.

Pretty soon all the landmarks have been wiped out, the separate peaks eroded, and the whole thing is the same amorphous mass it was before.

There are times when I get fed up with the futility of this kind of tidying. I resolve to make a clean sweep. This usually happens at New Year.

So I get a couple of big cardboard cartons, dump everything in there, and take the cartons home to sort. I have quite a collection of them now.

My resolution for 1961 is to get them cleared before they crowd me out of the house.

Your Good Health

Extra Vitamins Won't Provide Super-Health

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, MD

"Dear Dr. Molner: It seems that people are becoming growingly aware of supplementing their diet with vitamins, minerals and proteins. Generally the minimum daily requirement preparations are advised.

"I am diabetic and am wondering if an excess of these requirements would be advisable in my particular case. I am presently well-controlled in my condition.—J.E.L."

Letters somewhat similar to yours, except that perhaps the people involved have some chronic condition other than diabetes, come in from time to time.

I suppose we can say it sounds logical to think that, if vitamins (and minerals and proteins) are good for our health, perhaps extra doses of them might be still better.

THIS ISN'T SO

Well, this is not so. Vitamins are not medicine, nor are minerals or proteins.

We need a certain amount of all of these things and, in a normally well-balanced diet, we get them. More than enough isn't going to make us super-healthy. Or, for that matter, more than enough isn't going to do any good at all.

Let me make this clear: I am most decidedly not selling short the use of vitamins.

PROPER DIETS

Vitamins and minerals, which we get from our proper diets of vegetables, grains, fruits, dairy products, meat, etc., are needed only in very small quantities but these small quantities are very necessary indeed.

One comparison struck me as quite descriptive. In the case of iodine, someone once calculated the amount needed by the body is about what we would get by sniffing hard at the stopper from an iodine bottle once a day.

SMALL AMOUNTS

It gives you an idea of what small amounts are needed.

If we get more than enough the body simply does not use the excess. Sometime it is "stored" by the body, and sometimes it is steadily discharged as fast as any excess builds up. And yet again, some things can do mischief if too much is taken. Iodine is one example. Too much iron can upset the digestion. Some vitamins such as A and D, if taken in excessive amounts, can cause harm.

GOOD ORDER

What I am pleading for is a reasonable attitude toward vitamins as well as other dietary components. These are things we need in order to keep the body in good running order.

They are not medicines. They are simply a part of our total nutrition.

When we start thinking in terms of "taking a little extra," then we have lost sight of the plain, simple facts. It distinctly is possible to do harm by going overboard on the amount taken — to say nothing of the fact that such a practice is wasteful. Why spend money on excessive amounts that we don't need?

Stalemate Looms in Laos

VIENTIANE (Reuters) — The government of Prince Boun Oum won a vote of confidence from parliament Wednesday after pledging to seek peace for the war-torn kingdom.

Independent observers meantime saw a stalemate shaping up between leftist and rightist forces elsewhere in the country.

The assembly in the rightist-held capital voted 41 to 0 for Boun's regime after the general, who wrested power from the neutralists, promised to settle the civil war as soon as possible.

Defence Minister Gen. Phoumi Nosavan pledged his government would solve the country's crisis "by its own means" as quickly as possible.

Phoumi said the government would appeal for outside aid from the UN or unidentified "other bodies" only if troops from neighboring Communist North Viet Nam continued their invasion.

The minister said the right-wing regime also would seek a peaceful solution with the pro-Communist Pathet Lao forces who have been conducting a fierce guerrilla war since the nation was set up in 1954.

As both sides claimed battle victories, the independent observers said the situation might be stabilized, with pro-Boun troops holding northern towns and the leftists controlling most of the countryside.

Laos No Korea

Canada Charts Its Own Course

OTTAWA (UPI) — The Laotian problem is providing evidence that Canadian foreign policy no longer blindly follows the lead of either Washington or London, but charts its own independent course.

This is being demonstrated by the Canadian attitude since the troubled situation in Laos first took world headlines because of the importance which Washington authorities attached to it — and of the importance which London authorities attached to the Washington reaction.

PEACE GROUP

Canada has refused to identify itself with either the emergency views in Washington, or with London's suggestions to revive the Indian-Polish-Canadian peace supervision commission set up to end the Indo-China war.

Nevertheless, Canada has taken no mere "middle" position, instead Canada has made it clear to both Washington and London that it does not regard Laos as posing the threat of another Korea.

'Tragic Thought'

U.S. in Wrong Charges Author

LONDON (Reuters)—Novelist Graham Greene took another swing Wednesday at the U.S. in a letter to The Times.

The 56-year-old writer criticized U.S. activities in Laos and said: "It is tragic to think that it is a Western power which has brought war back."

He blamed the U.S. for "undermining" the neutralist government of Prince Souvanna Phouma by aiding the right-wing forces of Gen. Phoumi Nosavan and said it was "American weapons which have helped to destroy Vientiane."

He added: "At least the Russian aid at the beginning of this mad competition was given to the legal government of the country."

The U.S. role in Laos, he said is the same as that of the Nazi Germany and Facist Italy during the Spanish civil war.

PUSILLANIMOUS

"One can only hope that England will not play again her former pusillanimous part by aiding, with her ambiguous diplomacy, the forces of the right."

Greene, who has had brushes with U.S. immigration officials because he was a member of the Communist party briefly at 19, was in Indochina during the war between the French and the Communists.

'Gather Nations Together' To Imitate Indochina Peace

LONDON (CP)—The Guardian of Manchester says a long-term solution of the problem in Laos requires a new international conference along the lines of the 1954 nine-country meeting that ended the Indochinese war.

The Guardian goes further than other British newspapers which urge renewal of the international control commission, which comprises Canada, India and Poland.

While the Guardian says the commission might cool the immediate crisis, a settled status for Laos is required if the crisis is not to break out again.

Jobless Learn Again

Arranging a ward setup for practical nursing course at new school for unemployed are school officials A. J. Broome and Mrs. Jean Smythe.

It's back to school next week for 66 Greater Victorians who are unemployed.

First classes in the provincial government program to lower unemployment by increasing educational and technical training standards will start at the vocational school at Menzies and Simcoe Monday morning.

GRADE 10 LEVEL

Courses are practical nursing, with a class of 16; general commercial, 20; and general educational, designed to bring students up to Grade 10 standards, two classes of 15 each.

The students, aged from 17 to nearly 50, will study during a seven-hour day and will be paid a subsistence allowance by the government.

SUCCESS IN 1959

The program, being staged here for the first time, was successful in Vancouver, Nanaimo and Burnaby last year.

Of more than 900 taking part, 70 per cent later found jobs, including all 70 physically handicapped workers.

The National Employment Service processed 27,000 files before selecting 300 who might want to take the course. This was later whittled down to 75 in Vancouver and 30 here.

Child Trapped in Locked Room For Days with Mother's Body

NEW YORK (AP) — Little Patricia McKiernan, who survived nearly a week without food or water in a locked room with her dead mother, rallied Wednesday but remained on the critical list.

Attendants at a hospital said the three-year-old child still had not spoken except to mumble repeatedly for water.

She was found Monday by a patrolman in an apartment beside the body of her mother, Jennie, 33, a widow.

The mother suffered from a heart condition and a medical examiner said she had died at least five days previously.

A Christmas tree still sparkled with tinsel in the living room when patrolman James Fortuno entered the apartment. Fortuno took Patricia to the hospital.

The patrolman broke into the apartment at the request of relatives who knew of Mrs. McKiernan's heart ailment and were worried because they had not been able to reach her.

Her husband died three years ago.

How To Annoy Visitors

ONE way and another Victoria spends quite a lot of money to attract tourists. Why, then, does the city permit minor unnecessary annoyances to give them a bad impression of the place?

A sure and quick way of irritating strangers is to make it difficult for them to find their way around. Unless the streets are clearly and uniformly labelled with their names visitors have a hard time finding their way—especially in a city like this, so haphazardly laid-out in the first place that even permanent residents get lost sometimes.

A survey made by the Colonist the other day disclosed that numerous important intersections in the downtown area are signposted very poorly, if at all. This is the area which most tourists see first on arrival here.

Small wonder that in summer tourists are to be seen crawling along in their cars, twisting and turning their heads in efforts to find out where they are. The disturbance of the normal flow of traffic this causes is of minor importance compared to the ill-temper aroused in people the city is trying to please.

The official explanation for this unsatisfactory condition is that the city is waiting for the power poles to be removed; but that job won't be completed for a long time. Are another two summers to pass before anything worth while is done?

Anyhow poor signposting is by no means confined to the business area. The signposting of most of the Greater Victoria area is out of date and lacking in uniformity.

Street name plates should be clearly visible to motorists travelling at normal speed. They cannot drive in safety while trying to decipher the name of a street displaying in letters too small to be read at anything but close range; or while looking back over their shoulders to read names facing the wrong way. Nor can they read quickly street names printed vertically on an upright post—a method of labelling whose sole advantage is that it is cheap.

Here is a useful study for the intermunicipal committee to undertake. Throughout the country there is now a uniform system of highway signposting; surely it shouldn't overtax the ingenuity of the councils of this metropolitan area to devise and put into effect an efficient, uniform system of naming streets.

To Their Proper Place

AN awkward chapter for Canada has ended with the return to Polish hands of the national treasures of that country deposited here for safe keeping some 20 years ago. Their long retention after consolidation of Communist rule in Poland has been no little embarrassment; the crown and associated relics of a nation belong essentially to their own homeland.

These art treasures were brought to Canada at the outset of the last war; understandably by loyalists driven to extreme measures to safeguard valuable national assets. When Poland came within the postwar Soviet sphere of domination the late Premier Duplessis took them into custody and refused to admit Polish claims for their re-possession.

They have been a source of irritation ever since, putting Canada in the anomalous position of withholding another nation's priceless works without valid reason. Treasures of this nature are above ideological or political disputation; nor does the incidence of Communist governance bely their rightful resting place. The historical treasures of Russia are no less respected in the Kremlin because they were the acquisition of a monarchy no longer extant in that country.

One appreciates the objections of the so-called Polish government in exile, but the treasures in question, after all, are not theirs; they are the heritage of the Polish people and their rightful place is in Polish hands. And the present Warsaw government, no matter how it evolved, is the acknowledged government sitting as a member of the United Nations.

The Quebec administration has recognized this and in arranging the return of the Polish treasures it has acted with a sense of reality and a basic understanding of such matters. It has also extracted the federal government from a political dilemma which has affected relations with the Polish state. At least one cause of bad feeling has thus been removed. It can be taken for granted also that the people of Poland will be glad to get back these priceless relics of their own history.

False Assumption

THERE are so many revolutionary changes proposed in the Chant report on the education system of British Columbia that it is a pity to find people in positions of authority misinterpreting or reading into the report things that aren't there. More than one person has commented erroneously on the sections relating to art and music and thereby created the impression that these two subjects are to be eliminated from the curriculum.

What the Chant report did in fact recommend was a curtailment of the time now devoted to them. In line with the emphasis placed on fundamentals, the commissioners proposed that in Grades 1 to 6 the maximum time for art and music should not together exceed 2¼ hours a week, and that the time thus saved should be allotted to reading, arithmetic and language. Since those are the subjects on which sound instruction is vital in the earliest stage of schooling, most people will agree with the view implicit in the report that 10 per cent of the total school time is quite enough to spend on what some people regard as frills.

As the pupil progresses higher the time devoted to extraneous subjects would be reduced. In Grade 7 industrial arts and home economics would be discontinued; and perhaps that accounts for the mistaken belief that art and music would be also. What the report does propose is that the maximum time for art and music be reduced to two hours a week, and that the time saved be devoted to English, mathematics, social studies (history and geography) and science —the fundamentals again.

Few would choose to have everything else totally subordinated to the basic elements of education, and it is unfortunate that false interpretation of the report has caused unnecessary anxiety on that score.

Interpreting the News

May Again Be the Firemen

BY GRAHAM TROTTER, Canadian Press Staff Writer

A CIVIL war in a small princely kingdom half-way around the world from Canada is being watched with interest and anxiety by the Canadian government.

It was in Laos, a state about the size of the three Maritime provinces, that Canadian soldiers and diplomats helped maintain the peace for four years until 1958.

Canada again may have to play the role of fireman in the Indochinese state where the conflict between pro-West and pro-Communist forces has been described as "grave" by the U.S. government and as a "dangerous hotbed" of fire by Soviet Premier Khrushchev.

For the Canadian government, it is a matter of waiting until the situation crystalizes and until there is a firm, official request from the Laos government for Canada's good offices.

Canada's direct interest in Laos goes back to the Geneva conference of 1954 when Britain, France, Russia and Communist China set up machinery to keep the peace after the eight-year war in Indochina between the French and the Communist Vietminh.

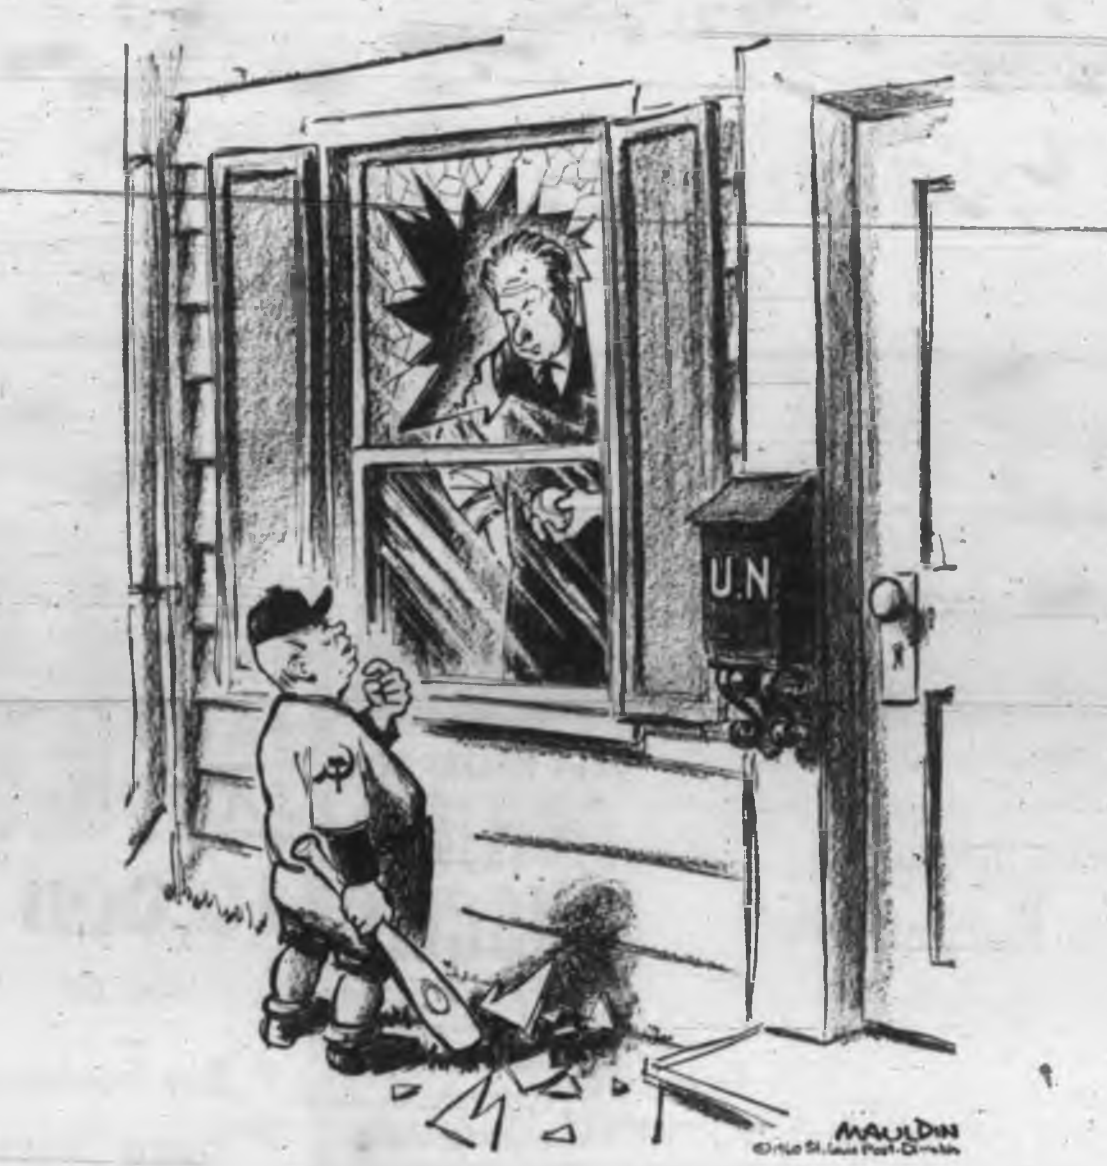
Truce supervisory commissions, with Canada, India and Poland as members, were set up in each of the Indochina states of Laos, Cambodia and Viet Nam. Over the years, more than 500 Canadians, drawn from the defence and external affairs departments, have served in these states.

About 80 Canadians still are serving on the commission in Viet Nam. There is only one on the skeleton commission still working in Cambodia. The commission in Laos was adjourned indefinitely in July, 1958, on Canadian initiative with Indian support.

Canada took the lead for the 1958 adjournment because it felt the commission in Laos had accomplished its purpose. A reasonable stability of government appeared to have been achieved with elections earlier that year and a reconciliation of Communist rebel forces and the governing royalist elements.

Hardly six months had passed after the commission adjourned when India began a series of representations to Canada to have it reconvened. But Canada's position has been that the commission should not be re-established without the consent of Laos.

Laos has only about 2,000,000 inhabitants spread over 91,000 square miles of mountain and jungle, but this landlocked state is particularly strategic. It borders on six countries, including Red China, and is the gateway to Burma and Malaya.



"WHY SHOULD I HELP PAY FOR IT?"

Thinking Aloud

" . . . of shoes—and ships—and sealing wax—of cabbages and kings."

By TOM TAYLOR

A NEW year should induce caution as well as anticipation, as I have just found out. A reader points out that Lawrence's "The Mint," said in this space yet to await printer's ink, had been borrowed by him from the Croydon (England) public library five or six years ago. You can borrow it from our own public library too, incidentally, in case you have a hankering for it.

This scribe must be careful, therefore, when he comes across a bloomer by someone else. The sources of old songs, for instance, are often obscure and scholars do not always agree on their origins. Even the antecedents of such a well-established anthem as "God Save the Queen" are not beyond dispute.

It was a bit startling, though, to discover during the holiday period that the sleeve on a friend's long-playing record averred that "Rule Britannia" was the British national anthem. "The Queen" may not have been formally adopted by parliament as was America's "Star-Spangled Banner" but for long it has been part of the British and Canadian heritage. I had a momentary disquiet lest somehow we had all been led astray.

Were this so the argument over Canada's national anthem might cease for "O Canada" would then supercede "Rule Britannia," which we cannot claim, and "The Queen" could be reserved as best it should be for royal and certain official occasions, anthem or no anthem. In truth, however, the Royal Marines, whose LP record it was that startled me, have properly been playing "God Save the King (or Queen)" as the national anthem in countless band performances. If they happen on this their own record, as printed in North America at least, no doubt they will be equally astonished.

"Rule Britannia," mind you, is not inappropriate to these gallant sailor-soldiers or the musicians who wear their uniform. They have a nautical flavor for all of their red coats and spiked helmets, and they have wrought sturdily to ensure that "Britons never shall be slaves." The words of this song, by the way, suggest that a native of Britain is a Briton, although nowadays this term does not enjoy universal favor. It must have been extant, however, when some 200 years ago the poet James Thomson wrote his stirring patriotic song.

Peculiarly enough, or by one of those concatenations that make history intriguing as well as teasing, the national anthem itself made public bow roughly about the same time. In some circles organist Dr. John Bull's original air is regarded as the begetter of "God Save the King," and that would be most seemly because of his name, but apparently the song underwent various forms and changes.

Another version is that originally "The King" was a Catholic anthem invoked for the protection of the last of the Stuarts, and adapted later—stolen if you like—by the Georgians when the Young Pretender threatened to take back what his family had lost.

The scholars disagreeing perhaps the writer of a record sleeve can be pardoned for being confused. Being in a chastened mood because of his own recent error, anyway, this writer forgives the slip. This note will relieve any anxiety on the part of his friend, however, and perhaps any inclination to throw the LP away. He had better not "Tell it to the Marines," however. They might sue for insult and damages to their loyal reputation.

Reports from Ottawa

EVER since they invented the word "inventory" for the goods on tradesmen's shelves, it's been known that inventory is a pretty good indicator of business trends. If inventories are high, it's a sign that business prospects are good.

Business has two kinds of inventories: of raw materials and of finished products. If business men believe prices are due to advance, they stockpile raw materials at today's low prices, and let their production of goods exceed their current sales, within reason, in expectation that their stockpiled finished products will bring them higher prices when they are sold.

But if inventories drop, it means that business is of the opinion that sales and prices are going to drop. If business men let their raw materials stockpiles dwindle, it means they expect that in a few weeks or a few months they can replenish them at lower prices. If they let their stockpiles of finished products run out of their warehouses, it means they do not think tomorrow's demand will justify today's high price of production, and that prices will fall. So they don't want to be caught in a low price market with a lot of high cost goods.

This has been an economic law since the first stone axe manufacturer set his output according to the number of clams he could charge for an axe. It is, however, no longer valid. George Hees has repealed it.

The repeal, presumably under authority vested by Parliament in the minister of trade and commerce, is contained in Hees' year-end "Review of Canada's Economy in 1960 and Outlook for 1961"—an intriguing and fascinating document.

"Following a period of hesitancy earlier in the year," Hees says, "comprehensive measures of general activity" (whatever that may mean!) "now show a firm trend. A number of strong sustaining influences underlie demands within the Canadian economy."

One of them, Hees asserts, is "the liquidation of inventories now taking place." This, he says, "will provide the basis for a strengthening in new orders in due course."

In other words, this sign of recession is no longer to be considered such. Henceforth it's to be considered a sign of "a firmer trend." Like when the sun goes down, it's a sign of a sunrise "in due course."

* * *

Another important indicator is capital investment—the amount of money business men are willing to put into new plant and machinery. If they expect business will be good, they expand. Otherwise they don't.

In June a government survey showed that capital investment by business in 1960 would be up 8 per cent over 1959. This didn't materialize. Business men had second thoughts after noting the flattening of the gross national product in the second quarter, and the 3.4 per cent drop in industrial production from January to September.

But Hees lists capital investment as another "strong sustaining influence." He forecasts that "capital spending by the business community in 1961 will hold close to the previous year's level."

Tut, tut, George—a declining indicator "a sustaining force?" What would your economic profs at Varsity and Cambridge say?

The Packsack

Hay in the Barn

By GREGORY CLARK

WHEN asked to help prepare a TV script involving a good deal of research in public libraries and museums, a clever young advertising copy writer of my acquaintance retorted with:

"What's in it for me?"

"Hay in the barn," said the comfortable old-timer who was trying to organize the project.

The past 15 prosperous years in Canada have accustomed the rising generation to a cash on delivery or even a cash in advance basis of operations. The idea of investing time and energy on something that might some day pay off comes very reluctantly to the newer minds. Nobody wants to be cluttered up with ideas, information, much less research, that cannot be turned to immediate profit. Scholars, in the traditional sense of the word, are becoming obsolete.

Hay in the barn was a phrase very familiar 30, 40 years ago. It meant that a man stashed away in the barn of his mind a great deal of fodder for future use, consisting of contacts, areas of information, experiences far removed from immediate profit, which oftener than not, saved the situation when for him winter came. Economically, summer does not last forever.

Transistor Menace

(From The Toronto Star)

THE man with a blaring transistor radio in a bus may be merely a nuisance to his fellow passengers. In an aircraft, he may be a menace to the lives of all aboard.

That grim possibility emerged from investigation into the air disaster over New York City which took 134 lives.

In the United States the Flight Safety Foundation has warned that a transistor radio can foul an airliner's electronic course indicator. Electronic experts in Canada's department of transport warn that—though there is yet no certainty—the possibility exists. The danger was deemed sufficient for the DOT to warn in an aviation information circular against the practice of playing transistor equipment aboard aircraft.

As yet, however, no specific regulation in Canada or the United States prohibits anyone playing these radios in flight. Some air lines caution passengers against doing so. But is that enough, in dealing with what may be a rock 'n' roll dance of death?

Playing a pocket radio in flight could be tantamount, in this age of crowded air lanes, to depriving a pilot of his navigational equipment —or to blindfolding a taxi driver and asking him to rush through Toronto's 5 o'clock traffic.

It may be some time before electronic specialists can verify scientifically whether the transistor is a potential lethal weapon in an airplane. If it is proved so beyond reasonable doubt, the public will expect flight regulations to include a prohibition—with stiff penalties for infraction—against playing transistor radios in flight.

Soviet Farm Plan

Favoring the Wealthy

BY ISAAC DEUTSCHER

AS early as last summer Moscow issued a grave warning to its allies that it would not have large surpluses this year and that they must fend for themselves. The question was certainly raised again during the recent conference of Communist leaders in Moscow; and the result could not have been reassuring to Khrushchevs clients.

This probably accounts for the speeding up of collectivization in Hungary, announced by Kadar on his return from Moscow. It is true that increased pressure for collectivization may cause Hungarian peasants to produce less than they have produced hitherto; but the collectivist organization may nevertheless enable the Kadar government to extract from them more and so to secure in some measure the provisioning of the towns.

The situation is more critical in Poland, where resistance to collectivization is powerful not only among the peasantry but in Gomulka's own party and entourage, and where food shortages appear to have been worse than elsewhere in Eastern Europe.

* * *

Even inside the Soviet Union, where the citizen may not have to tighten his belt just now, the reverses in agriculture are having important repercussions. Khrushchev's position is to some extent weakened. The criticisms of his agrcultural policy that were made at the central committee a year ago are now repeated more explicitly and with greater insistence; and many new ones are added.

Khrushchev has staked a great deal on the ploughing up, in 1954-57, of the 80,000,000 acres of virgin land, most of it in the steppe of Kazakhstan. He has set up there about 1,200 new giant sovkhozy (state-owned farms) the produce of which was to make his food policy partly independent of the unstable productivity and unstable moods of the kolkhozy peasantry.

In the first few years the harvests of the virgin lands were indeed abundant; and in the flush of success Khrushchev often regaled his audiences with the story how his rivals, especially Malenkov, had opposed him in this bold experiment and had predicted its failure.

* * *

Apart from his rivals, some of his own agricultural experts had also feared that the steppe might, after yielding a few rich crops, turn into a dustbowl. Many people from the central committee down to the tillers of virgin lands are now wondering whether these warnings were not justified after all.

Criticisms are also expressed, even in the Soviet Press, about the consequences of Khrushchev's other great move, the sale of the machine tractor stations to the collective farms. The critics claim that as a result of this, and also of the decentralization of industrial control, agricultural machinery is not renovated in time, not kept in good repair, and in being less efficiently used.

These criticisms may be pointless: one or two good harvests may redress the balance; and, anyhow, the machine tractor stations cannot be reconstituted, nor can the new virgin land farms be abandoned. But what is questioned is the soundness of Khrushchev's judgment.

* * *

New tensions are also making themselves felt in the Soviet countryside. Khrushchev's great popularity there was largely based on the gain of 100,000,000,000 roubles the peasantry had pocketed in 1958. (The net gain per family was over 5,000 roubles in cash, a considerable sum for peasants earning their upkeep in kind.)

The expectation of a further rapid rise in incomes has led to something like a building boom and a spending spree in the villages. With the decline of rural incomes in two consecutive years, Khrushchev's popularity with the kolkhozy has also declined.

One social tension, which is not quite new but has never been spoken of hitherto and is now aggravated, is the antagonism between the "wealthy" and the "poor" collective farms.

* * *

The wealthy kolkhozy are those that are situated on the more fertile soil or closer to big industrial centres and that have accumulated the larger stocks of cattle, machinery, etc. The sale of the machine tractor stations has done something to make the rich kolkhozy richer, and consequently the poor poorer. In any case, from the poor collective farms the outcry now comes that Khrushchev's reform has increased inequality among the farming population, because only the wealthy kolkhozy were in a position to buy up the agricultural machinery he had put on sale.

Surprisingly, this cry has been allowed to reverberate in the columns of Selskaya Zhizn (Rural Life), a paper with a large circulation in the country.

Many Christians Appalled

Much Heart-Searching

Death Penalty May Go, in God's Good Time

* * *

Execution Strongest Deterrent In Opinion of Many Jurists

Winston Churchill once said: "One of the unfailing tests of civilization is a constant heart-searching by all charged with the duty of punishment."

Civilized peoples have become increasingly averse to the harrowing infliction of capital punishment. Christians, in particular, are inclined to doubt its doctrinal validity. In 1930, Archbishop Temple of Canterbury opposed the death penalty for various reasons, and especially because "it renders impossible effective maintenance of the standard which the law demands of the Christian."

Nearly 27 years later, a successor Archbishop, Dr. Fisher, in a House of Lords debate on the Homicide Bill, was unable to concur in the view taken by Dr. Temple.

He held that the choice did not rest on support from any absolute principle. It seemed to him that the State was entitled "in the name of God and Society" to impose the death penalty. Archbishop Dr. Ramsey of York, on the same occasion dissociated himself from "the idea that it was progressive and Christian if the element of retribution could gradually be eliminated from punishment."

Too Many Crimes

The Homicide Bill was passed. It limited but did not forbid infliction of the death penalty. During the debate, the Lord Chancellor, Lord Kilmuir, said there were still far too many crimes of violence and he did not think the time had come for relaxing the safeguard. The Lord Chief Justice, Lord Goddard said that, in his opinion, the fear of execution was the criminal's strongest deterrant.

As civilization advanced after the Exodus of the Israelites, primitive exaction of vengeance (an eye for an eye, and a tooth for a tooth) was cast aside by the revelation of the Ten Commandments. These are embodied in our Christian doctrine, and underlie the foundations of our public law.

'I Will Repay'

On the question of religious principle, abolitionists quote St. Paul's Epistle to the Romans, XII.19. — "Vengeance is mine; I will repay, saith the Lord."

That is, of course, true: but God does not constantly strike the wicked from Heaven. It would seem evident that he enforces repayment chiefly through the edifice of human law which he has inspired.

Aristotle, in his "Ethics" (4th Century B.C.) said that all human law is based upon a primal divine law, "The Just by Nature." That is the criterion and foundation of much human legislation. (See the 1st Chapter of The Gospel according to St. John.)

Rousseau, in his "Le Contrat Social" (1726), said "It is in order not to become the victim of assassins that men agree not to be put to death, if they should become assassins."

Lesser Sage

George Bernard Shaw, a lesser sage, argued that society should retain the right to do away with those who are beyond reform, because the right to live in civilized society could only be conceded to them at the penalty of wasting useful lives in restraining them.

Shakespeare's two utterances on the subject may be found in "The Merchant of Venice," (The quality of mercy is not strained, etc.); and in "Timon of Athens" (Nothing emboldens sin so much as mercy, etc.—.)

No recorded utterance of Jesus Christ enjoined remission of a justly imposed death sentence. From the Cross, he did not condemn the penal law, when he promised redemption in Paradise to the repentant malefactor crucified beside him, who had rebuked his fellow sufferer, saying "Dost thou not fear God, seeing thou art in the same condemnation? And we, indeed, justly; for we received the due reward of our deeds: but this man hath done nothing amiss."

More Horrible

In Canada, the government exercises with wisdom and discretion the prerogative of mercy (i.e., by converting the death penalty into imprisonment for life.) But life imprisonment may be the more horrible penalty for some minds.

Some years ago, the adoption of a "Mental Health Act" was proposed in England, in order to make it possible for court procedure to be suspended in the case of criminals who are diagnosed as "psychopaths."

This is a very complicated subject, requiring the decision of medical experts.

In Canada, some years ago, two Anglican clergymen; the Rev. T. F. Summerhayes and the Rev. E. L. H. Taylor, advised that the death penalty should be retained.

The former said, in substance, that he would gladly have been convinced that abolition could be achieved without danger to the public; but that evidence, and his own experience, had convinced him that it could not.

Main Task

The Rev. Mr. Taylor wrote an article strongly defending the penalty, urging that it should not be the main task of the law "to make saints out of crooks rather than to give them their just deserts."

Their argument was supported when, in April, 1959, no reprieve was granted to the convict Mantha. He was hanged, in execution of the Appeal Court's judgment.

Press headlines in Canada often tell of deplorable loss of life occurring when malefactors raid banks or stores or pay-trucks.

The Toronto police department ordered members of the "Hold-up Squad" to practice with tear gas guns, revolvers, rifles and sub-machine guns.

Police agents whose duty it is to secure public safety undoubtedly risk their own lives.

Winston Churchill, in his 1910 pronouncement quoted above, said we must have . . . "unfailing faith that there is a treasure, if you can only find it, in the heart of every man."

We have not yet found it.

True Christians may, nevertheless, feel a strong emotional hope that capital punishment may, in God's intended time, fade away.

CANADIAN FORUM

The controversial subject of capital punishment is the subject for this week's Canadian Forum, from the pen of Sir Robert Holland, KCIE, who has lived here in retirement for many years.

A barrister who entered the India Civil Service for an exceptionally brilliant career, Sir Robert attained posts such as officiating political secretary to the Government of India, and member of the India Council.

At one time, also, he was judicial adviser to the Siamese Government.

After his retirement, Sir Robert lectured throughout Canada and the United States on India and the Far East, and has also written many articles.

Sir Robert's subject is of unusual interest due to attention being given to capital punishment in Canada at this time.

Letters to the Editor

Sheer Effrontery

I see by Dec. 30 issue of the Colonist that the building and home construction figures for the year are badly down in the municipality of Saanich. I presume no one is surprised. I, for one, will not be surprised if it presently ceases entirely; in which event the Saanich council will have no one but itself to blame.

The latest evidence of high-handed effrontery has just arrived in yesterday's mail—a notice to the effect that because the municipality has now acquired more efficient office equipment, which gets the tax notices out earlier, the long-suffering property owners will in future be required to settle up by Aug. 17, or be penalized.

This hasty and ill-considered action which takes no thought of the fact that people at this time hope to have money for summer holidays, that they may be away in August and consequently must fork up even earlier, or that those in the teaching profession are without their regular income will undoubtedly be just one more incentive for residents to quit the district and make their homes elsewhere.

Over a period of years Saanich taxes have soared out of all proportion. Granted this occurs elsewhere . . . but the point to remember is that nowhere do homeowners receive less for their money. There are just schools and more schools— paid for at the same rate by citizens who are childless as by those with half a dozen youngsters. Naturally that particular bill is continually turned down.

There is far, far too much wrong with the administration of this particular municipality for it to prosper.

Unite Africa, King Demands

CASABLANCA (AP)—King Mohammed V of Morocco proposed Wednesday a pan-African union to liberate the continent an expel all foreign intervention, especially Western.

The king, opening a summit meeting of five African nations, calling for a program to unify the continent politically and economically. He said the program should be carried out by a permanent African council and an African consultative assembly.

The king demanded a permanent Congo committee named by the UN to supervise the return of parliamentary government in the Congo. This committee would include countries that contributed troops to the UN force.

Fishery Scientists Told:

'Canada Must Keep Even'

OTTAWA (CP) — Fisheries Minister MacLean called Wednesday for the best efforts of Canadian fisheries scientists in view of foreign exploitation of high-seas fishing grounds off the Canadian coasts.

He told the Fisheries Research Board that "with regularly increasing competition and exploitation by foreign nations of fishing grounds and our markets as well, we must make our best efforts to even maintain our position."

Harmful Blow Admitted —Without Explanation

A man pleaded guilty in city police court Tuesday to causing bodily harm to another, but steadfastly refused to offer an explanation.

Chris Tom, 49, said only: "I plead guilty, that's all."

Const. Charles Hitchen said Tom struck Francis Sampson, about the same age, in the 500 block Fisgard at 11.55 p.m. Dec. 31. Sampson fell to the pavement, suffered a cut to the head and was unconscious for several hours.

Tom was remanded by Magistrate William Ostler to Jan. 6 for probation report and sentence.

Two men charged in city court with possession of drugs were remanded once more for plea when they appeared on Tuesday.

Gary Conway, 1355 Vining, was remanded to Jan. 9; Barry Thomas Rushworth, 101 Island Highway, was remanded to Jan. 10. Both had elected trial by magistrate.

MORE HEADROOM, MORE LEGROOM, TOO!

Space to spare — where the driver can appreciate it. Up top there's the kind of headroom — and shoulder room, too — that top hats and rugby players need. Chevrolet seats are higher this year — more nearly chair height — so that you sit comfortably erect with "Swinging" room for legs.

COMFORTABLE, STRETCH OUT INTERIORS

Chevrolet for '61 makes relaxing part and parcel of every trip. Front or back seat there's the space you need for stretch out comfort — for the posture which lets you fully enjoy Chevy's smoothest ride ever. And there's a brand of fabric beauty you'd expect to find in only the highest priced cars.

CHEVROLET for '61 has all the WIDE OPEN SPACES that you'll love!

You come and go in a big way in the new Chevrolet. There's more stretch out comfort . . . a shaved down driveshaft tunnel . . . and more useable trunk space. Yet the exterior measurements are smaller for easier handling! No other car so exactly measures up to your demands like the '61 Chevrolet.

"MIDDLE SEAT" PASSENGER COMFORT

Knees under your chin when you sit in the middle? Not in a '61 Chevrolet! The driveshaft tunnel has been decreased by 25% to add footroom for the "middle man". In addition, with the new dashboard control cluster all within easy reach of the driver, the man in the middle enjoys the full privileges of uninterrupted passenger comfort.

A GENERAL MOTORS VALUE

SPACIOUS, EASY-LIFT DEEP-WELL TRUNK

Two improvements make this new Chevrolet trunk the most practical ever. First, the trunk sill has been lowered as much as 10.5 inches — so that it's much easier to load heavy or bulky items. Then the spare tire has been moved to a new position, leaving a deep well that's tailor-made for tall cargo. Result: a trunk with storeroom capacity.

STATION WAGONS WITH "TRAVELLING SPACE"

For 1961, Chevrolet offers station wagons with the emphasis on roominess. Whether you want to load people, all the cottage supplies — or both — you have space to spare in a Chevrolet Station Wagon. And there's a new concealed compartment under the rear platform.

World Strife No Trouble For Wall St.

NEW YORK (UPI) — International tensions shook up Wall Street and the stock market rose like a cannon shot.

Virtually every major industrial and rail stock demmed likely to benefit from the outpourings of a military-oriented nation responding to troubles in Laos, Cuba and other parts of the world welled up strongly in the market's biggest gain since Oct. 23, 1957.

The Dow-Jones industrial average soared 11.24 points to 621.49.

Steel gains ran to 3⅝ in U.S. Steel and 3¼ in Youngstown with most others in the group ahead more than 2. Brokers were noting that any step-up in armament plans would find steel inventories at rock bottom levels.

Rally at Close

MONTREAL (CP) — The Montreal and Canadian stock exchanges rallied strongly before closing.

Texaco at 60 gained 2¾ to top the winners list. Power Corp. at 51 rose 2⅝ and Steel Co. of Canada was up two points at 69½. Interprovincial Pipe Line at 61½ added 1⅝.

Losers were led by Industrial Acceptance, down ⅝ at 44¾. Banque Canadienne Nationale at 54½ slipped ½. B.C. Power at 34⅞ and Gatineau at 37⅜ both were down ⅛.

In mines, Noranda at 41½ gained ⅞ and International Nickel rose ¾ at 59. Aluminum was up ⅝ at 32½ and Hudson Bay at 45⅝ added ⅝.

Steels Strong

TORONTO (CP)—The stock market played follow-the-leader on a broad front.

Industrials put on a show of strength with papers, steels and utilities all moving ahead briskly.

Among papers Eddy A jumped two points, Consolidated Paper was up a point, and MacMillan-Powell up ⅝.

Stelco and Canada Iron Foundries, Dominion Bridge and Dominion Foundries all improved ½.

Golds were weak. Among base metals, International Nickel gained ⅞ to hit a new high. Noranda went ahead ¾.

Mines Advance

VANCOUVER — Mining shares were strong in a fairly active session. Bralorne rose to 6.90, Canam to .19, Giant Mascot to .28½ and Silver Standard to .30. Highland Bell repeated 1.90.

Oils showed some improvements. B-A Oil was at $30¼. Pacific at $10⅝, United at 1.15 and Fort St. John 1.00.

The industrial section has some strong spots with Aluminium at $32½, Kelly Douglas at $6¼. MacMillan-Powell at $16½ and Dominion Tar at $14⅝.

London Stock Prices

LONDON (CP) — Stock prices improved after early uncertainty. Industrials established fairly widespread gains on selective demand.

There was little interest in gilt-edged securities but a few issues advanced.

Golds improved slightly, other mining selections were irregular and oils showed no firm trend.

Grain Markets

WINNIPEG (CP) — Prices showed a firm tone in generally active trade.

The flax market trade broadened, with international and overseas interests credited with sparking the moderate demand.

Small flax sales were reported overnight, with the United Kingdom mentioned as a buyer.

Firm linseed oil prices abroad contributed to the better tone of the flax market.

There was fair activity in the oats trade, with buyers associated with the domestic free trade.

Barley also had some demand and prices had a firm undertone.

Rye operations were mostly local and the firm prices reflected action on the Chicago market.

CHICAGO (AP) — Grain futures prices hit generally higher ranges early and held within them in rather slow dealings into the early afternoon.

Soybeans, the only losers, were under fairly steady selling pressure from profit cashers.

May wheat was the most spectacular performer of the day. It opened with an extreme advance of eight cents a bushel but it held for only a few minutes, then dropped sharply.

Highest Since Spring

B.C. Firm Top Trader

By HARRY YOUNG
Colonist Business Editor

Top trading industrial stock on the Toronto Stock Exchange yesterday was MacMillan, Bloedel and Powell River, one of the west's biggest exporting companies, and one likely to benefit strongly from devaluation of the Canadian dollar.

The B.C. firm's shares rose to $16½, which is the highest they have been since last Spring. Like other lumber and pulp companies, MacMillan-Powell is a beneficiary of the recent supplementary budget, but its main attraction in eastern markets may be that it may now be in a position to show fruitful economic results from the amalgamation of MacMillan and Bloedel and Powell River Company just a year ago.

In addition to the lumber and pulp firms, the strength of the New Year market spilled over into a wide range of securities.

Senior oils, pipelines, and leading metal and mining shares are all winning investors' favor, and some key stocks like Imperial Oil, International Nickel, Steel Company of Canada, Aluminium and B-A Oil are setting a tone for the market that has surprised many of the experts.

So far however, the bond market has shown little sign of producing an atmosphere for cheaper money. Some dealers believe that there will be no solid backing for the current stock advance until this happens.

BOOST FOR ROE

It may have been just coincidence, but an advance in A. V. Roe Canada to 4.80 in trading yesterday synchronized with a report from London that the Hawker Siddeley group, of which Roe Canada is a subsidiary is planning a shake-up of its top personnel.

Sir Roy Dobson, managing director of the group is being tipped into the chairman spot, with the executive control passing over to Sir Aubrey Burke, former de Havilland chief who joined the Hawker group a year ago.

GLOOM PREVAILS HERE

Another year of reduced activity for Canadian electrical manufacturers has been forecast by G. L. Wilcox, president of Canadian Westinghouse Company Limited. Inventories of electrical goods have been rising steadily for the past two years and are excessive in relation to the foreseeable level of demand.

Mr. Wilcox said the provisions recently presented in the supplementary budget will have little direct effect on the immediate problems of the electrical manufacturers, but admits they represent a growing appreciation by the government of the need for creating a more favorable climate for secondary industry in Canada.

RISING OIL TREND

Average daily deliveries of crude oil through the Trans Mountain Oil Pipe Line in 1960 were 113,143 barrels a day, an increase of 14,904 barrels a day over the 1959 average, but still well below the record year of 1957 when the line carried 154,900 barrels a day.

Average throughput in December was 95,708 and scheduled for January are deliveries of 128,000 barrels a day.

GAS PIPE ORDERED

Magna Pipeline Co. has awarded a contract for 58 miles of flexible submarine pipeline to British Insulated Callenders Cable. The line will be laid in 1962 between the B.C. mainland and Vancouver Island as part of a $30,000,000 natural gas distribution project for Vancouver Island.

The line will have a capacity of 50,000,000 cubic feet a day and it is expected to be in operation before the PUC licence deadline of mid-1963.

EARNINGS LOWER

Increased taxation is stated to be the reason for a drop in profits of Cassiar Asbestos. Net earnings in the year ended Sept. 30 were 59 cents a share against 76 cents a share in the previous year.

Bondholders Veto Sale

TORONTO (CP) — Bondholders of George H. Hees Co. Ltd. have voted against a proposal to sell the company's manufacturing and jobbing business, and the plan has been dropped.

The plan would have left the firm in the real estate business, leasing its properties to the purchasing group.

The company, manufacturers of a wide range of household furnishings such as window shades and draperies, will continue operations on a reduced basis, it is stated.

Control of the company was acquired in 1958 by Great West Saddlery Co. Ltd. Its plant is in Toronto.

Castlegar Pulp Mill Makes First Shipment

VANCOUVER (CP) — A $50,000,000 pulp and sawmill development in the Castlegar area of the Kootenays, slated to go into production March 1, has produced and shipped its first order of pulp.

The Columbia Cellulose Company said here today its Celgar plant shipped 2,000 tons of unbleached pulp before Christmas and more will be shipped in the next 10 days.

In an agreement with the British Columbia government before construction started in February of 1959, the company said it would have the plant in production by March. However, the company privately set its own deadline of January.

SOME BUGS

The company said there were still some "bugs" to be worked out in the machinery. But Celgar had 15,000 units of chips stock-piled and hoped to start its bleaching process this week to manufacture bleached kraft pulp.

The company now is employing about 320 men. When Premier Bennett announced the start of construction he said the plant would provide employment for 1,100 men by the middle of 1960.

The plant was included in the terms of a tree farm licence granted the company in the Arrow Lakes district.

The mill has a capacity of 500 tons a day and the company said markets appear good for the first six months and there is hope they will develop satisfactorily for the full year.

The Celgar mill is using mostly hemlock, balsam and a little cedar.

The new sawmill, slated for completion in June, will cut spruce, cedar, fir, pine and larch.

Edmonton Gets New Industry

MONTREAL (CP)—Naugatuck Chemicals, a division of Dominion Rubber Company will begin next April the first Canadian production of a preservative used in treatment of wood.

Naugatuck's new plant outside Edmonton will produce the preservative known as pentachlorophenol — used in treating wood for railway ties, post and beam structures, fences, telephone and telegraph poles and other woods exposed to rot-producing agents.

The announcement said increasing consumption of the chemical has made it practical to manufacture it in Canada. Dominion Tar and Chemical Company Limited is to be exclusive sales agents for the chemical.

Calgary Livestock

CALGARY (CP)—Prices followed the weaker tone set in late trading on the local livestock market Tuesday, though butcherweight heifer calves were stronger.

Choice butcher steers 21.75-22.40, good 20.50-21.50; choice butcher heifers 19.50-20.10, good 18.50-19.50; good cows 14.25-15.50; good bulls 15-17; good feeder steers 19.50-20.75; good stock steers 20-21.25; good butcherweight heifer calves 22-23.50 with sales to 24.

Hogs sold Tuesday at 26.15, light sows 14.80, heavy sows 13.60.

Russian Tour Off For Calgary Stamps

Lack of proper arrangements at the Russian end and premature disclosure by the Calgary press has been blamed for cancellation of tentative plans to have Calgary Stampeders of the Western Hockey League go on a three-game tour of Russia.

First hints of the plan came last week, calling for games between Stamps and Russia's national team this spring, prior to the world hockey championships. However, most observers felt the idea was doomed from the start because the tour would interfere with the WHL schedule.

Stampeder officials said it was expected that "further discussion will be shelved for one year and reopened only if the board of directors favor the plan."

Mervyn "Red" Dutton, president of the Calgary Exhibition and Stampede, has declared himself "absolutely opposed to the preposterous idea" and warned he will do everything in his power to stop it.

Soccer Star Sold 'For Own Good'

LONDON (AP) — The Queen's Park Ranger soccer team Wednesday sold its star player, Clive Clark, to West Bromwich Albion of the first division for his "own good and protection." Transfer price was $40,000.

George Wodehouse, Ranger president, said that Clark had so much ability that other clubs were putting three men on him in every game with instructions to get him.

"For the lad's own safety, we had to sell his contract to a club that played a higher brand of soccer," he said.

The Rangers play in the third division.

Luckies' Two Points Protested by Steelies

NEW WESTMINSTER (CP) — New Westminster Luckies romped to a 7-0 win over Chilliwack Steelheads Wednesday night but are in danger of losing the two points for the victory.

Chilliwack coach Slug Sloboda said the game was played under protest because New Westminster used two illegally registered players.

The players, Paul Monreau and Bob Leek, have been playing with Luckies all season but Sloboda claimed the pair haven't been released from Chilliwack, where they played last season.

In Victoria Wednesday night Ivan Temple, president of the B.C. Amateur Hockey Association, said six members of the Luckies who hadn't obtained proper releases from previous teams had been suspended. The six players included Leek and Monreau.

Temple said all games won by the New Westminster club using the suspended players would be forfeited to the opposing team.

The players are Al Lloyd, Jim Ridley, Monreau, Rudy Reisinger, Leek and John Utendale. Temple said a complaint was made by Chilliwack.

Norm Ullman sparked Luckies' winning effort with three goals. Pete Eades, Frank Carlson, Joe Wowk and Bill Wilkes fired singles goals.

Don Hamilton stopped a total of 22 shots in the New Westminster net to register his second shutout of the season.

Kennedy Calls Shot

No Aces, Please!

NEW YORK (UPI) — Golfing sources vow it happened:

As the story goes, according to the current issue of Look Magazine, two old friends from service days were playing golf at Monterey, Calif., last Memorial Day. One of the golfers picked up a No. 7 iron and drove the ball toward the 15th hole.

The ball bounced and rolled straight toward the pin in what appeared to be a possible hole-in-one.

"Go in!" shouted the other golfer.

"No, no!" shouted the man who had driven the ball.

The ball stopped a few inches short of the cup.

The other golfer was mystified. Why had his companion shouted "No, no," he wanted to know.

"If I had made a hole-in-one," explained then Sen. John F. Kennedy, "it would make the front page, and people would say, 'Oh, just another golfer trying to get into the White House!' "

Cougars' Big Guns Muzzled As Comets Post 5-0 Shutout

SPOKANE—Hail, Cesare! You can't come back too soon to suit Victoria Cougars. Cougars, who found goalie Cesare Maniago easy meat in their last game with Spokane Comets, ran into his replacement here last night and were shut out, 5-0, to snap a three-game winning streak in the Western Hockey League.

Gilles Boisvert, whose turns in the nets caused Maniago to pack up in disgust and head for home in Trail, celebrated his promotion to steady employment in a manner that was particularly trying for Cougars. He stopped 11 shots in the first period when Cougars looked ready for their fourth straight win, and although he had to make only 13 more the rest of the way there were enough good ones on seemingly-ticketed shots to make things impossible for the Victoria club.

PULLED AWAY

Cougars, who won five of their last six games, went into last night's action with 18 goals in the last three games, but they never got any of the big guns unlimbered against Comets. It was 2-0 at the end of two periods, and Comets pulled away with three more in the third after Boisvert came up with three good saves.

Ching Johnson got the first-period goal, the first of two for him. The second-period goal came on a Cougar power play when Bev Bell intercepted a pass at his own blue line and fed a breakaway scoring pass to speedy Forbes Kennedy.

Colin Kilburn and Tom Hodges scored for Comets in the third before Bell picked up his third assist of the night in setting up Johnson's second goal.

Kilburn also got into a second-period brawl with Don McLeod, bloodying the Cougar defenceman's nose before the two were separated. McLeod drew a minor and major penalty. Kilburn just a major.

Victory put Comets in third place, one point ahead of Portland Buckaroos. Cougars, who could have climed to fourth with a win, are sixth.

Next game for Cougars is Saturday night at home, when they open a tough weekend against Vancouver Canucks. Then it's off to Portland for an afternoon game Sunday, and another meeting with the Comets Tuesday in Victoria.

BIG LINE

Coach George Agar will be counting on a point spree by his big line of Gerry Goyer, George Ford and Bill Saunders, which scored 10 of the 18 goals in the last three wins, Goyer and Saunders scoring four and Ford two.

On the season the line is one of the tops in the league, Goyer with 17 goals and 17 assists for 34 points; Saunders with 13-15 for 28, and Ford with 10-16 for 26.

Victoria—Goal: Pelletier; defence: McLeod, Currie, Hay, North; forwards: Goyer, Ford, Saunders, Anderson, [illegible], [illegible], Fissell, Wilson, Johanson, Messick.

VIEWS of SPORT

By Red Smith

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M.—The Super Chief bowls along the plains, switching its hips like a disdainful movie queen. The landscape flows past the window, mountains and mesas, tortured spires and chimneys of sandstone, mesquite and tumbleweed and silver-grey sage. Once in every so many miles there is a man on horseback and it comes to mind that this is cowboy country. This is the hard land which spawns some of the toughest competitors in all the varied fields of athletic endeavor.

Last week in Dallas the lean and leathery men who make their living rassling steers, bouncing off the necks of infuriated bulls, clinging desperately to the withers of bucking, whirling broncos, were engaged in a show called the National Rodeo Finals, the world series of their hazardous profession.

Here are their dusty beginnings, in Dodge City and La Junta and Lamy and Wagon Mound—and in peaceful Poughkeepsie, N.Y., nestled in the green and gentle hills beside the Hudson.

It sounds like a gag, but the fact is that the top man in Dallas, the 1960 all-round champion of the Rodeo Cowboys Association, Inc., was a cowpoke from Poughkeepsie, a bagel-wrangler from the Catskills named Harry Tompkins. In the finals he was endeavoring to fatten his year's winnings of $16,882 earned riding bulls and $14,336 on bareback broncs with $3,218 and the all-round title.

Just to Be Near the Horses

The story starts away back with the scrawny son of a waiter in a Poughkeepsie beanery. There was an odd-jobs man in town with a team of old plugs which he used doing piece-work in the neighborhood, like plowing asparagus beds. Little Harry Tompkins, the waiter's son, followed him from job to job just to be near the horses.

Later Harry got a job in a riding academy. He got no money. His weekly pay for mucking out stalls, rubbing horses, saddling mounts for the customers, and saddle-soaping the tack, was one 45-minute ride over the bridle paths. The next step was a hitch as "ranch hand" at a dude joint in the Catskills.

A fellow can guess what the ranch may have looked like—a lodge of fake logs, stables, and a rocky corral, canoes on a lake freshly scooped out by bulldozer, Japanese lanterns at night, and on weekends a comic direct from Broadway doing his stale and stolen routine in the cocktail lounge.

Maybe it was better than that, but no matter. The fact was, Harry Tompkins, Chuckhouse Charlie of the borscht range, had never been west of Wilkes-Barre when he showed up one night in Madison Square Garden with an angry brahma bull between his knees.

The way that happened, the promoter of a rodeo in 1946 created a special class for cowboys from Eastern dude ranches. Each resort was entitled to enter one hand, on the theory that dolls who had vacationed at those places might pay to see their swains of last summer in competition. The rules required that the cowboy had to have been a bona fide employee on the ranch for at least 90 days, and only Harry Tompkins qualified.

Grim Kid in Faded Jeans.

He was a thin, grim kid in faded blue jeans. He got on a bull and went flying instanter. He got on another, and it slammed him on the tanbark. Everett Colborn, the stock contractor, was scared. He was working on percentage. It wouldn't help business to have this kid mangled in the arena. Colburn urged Harry to quit while he was alive.

"You worry about getting the bulls into the chute," the Catskill cowpoke told him, "I'll worry about getting 'em out."

The kid won $300 and some change in that first rodeo. He was paid off in $5 bills which he counted until they were thinner than Kleenex. The next year he was in the army, stationed on Staten Island where he could get into a few shows.

Most of all, a bull rider needs guts. After that, balance; then, the strength to hang on with a one-hand grip on a rope. Harry was born with one attribute. He spent his free time walking a slack wire, squeezing a rubber ball in his right fist.

In 1948, two years after his first rodeo, he was the country's champion on bulls. In 1952 he won the all-around championship for the first time. This year he got his second all-around by going first on bulls, second in bareback.

It was 1950, though, when he scored bingo. That year he married Rosemary Colborn, daughter of Everett, who had tried to run him off.

Bucks Whip Canucks, 2-0

PORTLAND — Vancouver Canucks are rated the team to beat in the Western Hockey League, so, that's what Portland Buckaroos do.

They've met Canucks three times this year, and won all three. The last one, a 2-0 shutout here last night, prevented Canucks from tying Calgary Stampeders for first place, and lifted the Bucks to fourth place, one point behind Spokane Comets.

Ed Dudych and Gordie Haworth scored for Portland, which is now sitting in one of the cosiest spots in the league. Only seven point behind Calgary, Buckaroos hold six games in hand over the Stamps, four over Vancouver, and six over the Comets. Seattle and Winnipeg have both played six games more, Victoria three, and Edmonton seven.

Rookie goalie Don Head had to make only 21 saves for his third shutout of the season and his second against Canucks. Claude Evans blocked 27 shots.

Dudych's goal came in the second period, when he tipped in a shot by Dale Rolfe. Haworth, ignoring a face cut suffered in a wild melee earlier in the period, got the extra goal at 11.57 of the third, letting fly with a drive that bounced in off an unidentified player.

Vancouver—Goal: Evans; defence: Macneil, Keller, Cahan; forwards: Cyr, Popein, Kurtenbach, Carmichael, Duke, Hutchinson, Powers, Wilkie, Roggeveen, Gilles.

Portland—Goal: Head; defence: Bionda, Davidson, Rolfe, Matthews; forwards: Haworth, Schmautz, Dudych, Fashoway, Jones, McCulley, Primeau, Krake, Leach, Ginnell.

Flyers Snap Losing Streak By Trouncing Seattle, 8-2

EDMONTON — Now that they've had a taste of how the other half lives, maybe Edmonton Flyers are ready to resume playing the type of hockey that made them the best in the Western Hockey League in the early going.

It looked that way here last night at least, as Bud Poile's Flyers snapped a horrible eight-game losing streak with a burst of power that buried the surprised Seattle Totems, 8-2.

Edmonton fans who had sat in disbelieving silence while Flyers lost 12 of their last 13 games to fall from first to seventh in the league standings, saw the club at its old-time best last night. Led by Lou Marcon, who collected his fifth and sixth goals of the season, Flyers built up a 2-1 lead in the first period and coasted in from there.

Don Poile, Ed Joyal, Ray Brunel, Dennis Rathwell, Chuck Holmes and Bruce MacGregor split the other goals for Flyers. Guyle Fielder got both for Totems, who fell from a third-place tie to fifth place.

Totems were without defenceman Frank Arnett, who has been suspended indefinitely for hitting an official. They recruited Doug Messier from Lacombe Rockets of the Central Alberta Intermediate league as replacement.

Goalie Bev Bentley was solid in the Totem nets despite the eight goals scored against him, blocking 38 shots behind a weak defence. Dennis Riggin blocked 32.

Seattle—Goal: Bentley; defence: Hunt, Sinclair, Tansley, Messier; forwards: Fileon, Fielder, McVie, Ehrenverth, Boileau, Blankiewicz, Chiupka, MacFarland, Leonard.

Edmonton—Goal: Riggin; defence: Strate, Haddon, Price, Marcon; forwards: Smith, Rathwell, Holmes, Poile, Achtymichuk, MacGregor, Sollinger, Haley, Brunel, Joyal.

Spokane Suspends Maniago

SPOKANE, Wash. (AP)—Rookie goaltender Cesare Maniago has been suspended indefinitely for refusing to return to Spokane after a Western Hockey League game in Vancouver Monday night, Spokane Comet general manager Roy McBride announced Wednesday.

McBride said Gilles Boisvert would play in the Spokane nets.

Maniago, property of Toronto Maple Leafs of the WHL, started the season for Spokane, but had been alternating as goalie since Boisvert joined the club. Both players were doing exceptionally well with Maniago allowing an average of 2.81 goals a game and Boisvert 3.2.

Maniago apparently felt he should be playing regularly, McBride said. He is believed at his home in Trail, B.C.

Basketball Jamboree Features Top Stars

Something new in local basketball—a jamboree featuring all eight teams from the city inter-high school league, will kick off the second half of the season Friday night at 7 p.m. at Central Junior High School gym.

Teams will be split in two divisions, with Mount View, St. Louis College, Victoria High and Oak Bay in the "A" group and Esquimalt, Royal Oak, North Saanich and Belmont in the "B" group. Each of the four teams in one division will play one eight-minute period with each other division's teams.

Score, which is of little importance anyway, will be added to each division's total following each eight-minute game.

It is the first time such a jamboree has been attempted here, and if it is successful, will be made an annual affair. The system is used on the prairies for both football and basketball, and usually provides one of the highlights of the school sports season.

Primarily, it gives fans a chance to see the best of the city's school basketball talent in what amounts to one all-star game. With competition in the school league as close as it was in the first half of the season, officials expect a fine show.

Esquimalt Dockers, undefeated this season, will feature Bruce Mitchell, who leads the league with a 25-point average per game. Oak Bay Greens, also unbeaten and tied with Dockers for the lead, builds its attack around guards John Fraser and Mike Cranston and centre Barry Entwhistle.

Vic High Totems, defending champions who haven't lost since being upset by Royal Oak in their opener, have a well-balanced club with John Louvaas, Mike Gallo and 6' 3" Ken Gregory handling most of the scoring.

Among the other stars of the city league in action will be Royal Oak's Jim Cunningham, second only to Mitchell in scoring; Del Clark and Ray Williams of Mount View, and Bill Spotswood and Russ Rhode of Belmont.

Tennis Dress Soiled? Just Throw It Away

LONDON (AP) — A throw-away paper dress for lady tennis players that costs just 70 cents may well be the brightest thing at the Wimbledon tennis matches this year.

Designed by Teddy Tinling, the creation made from nylon-lined paper imported from the United States was unveiled before a startled audience at a fashion show here Tuesday.

Tinling admits it's a gimmick, but says "I see no reason why it should not be worn at Wimbledon this year."

The water-repellent, grease, flame and oil-resistant dress now sells for $2.10. Tinling hopes to get the price down to 70 cents when the special paper process is developed.

AT THE 19th

With Harry Young

Even the oldest inhabitants agree that the Victoria weather excelled itself over the Christmas and New Year holidays. The fine warm, sunny days brought out the golfers by the hundreds, and the courses all reported high activity during the two long weekends.

On Boxing Day alone the tally shows that in three competitions there were nearly 300 competitors including nearly 150 at the Christmas Tree contest at Uplands.

Last weekend most courses were going all day on Saturday, Sunday and Monday. Most of the time it was shirtsleeve golf with the temperatures near the 50 mark, no rain, and glorious sunshine most of the days.

"When did you ever hear of a new green being opened at Christmas?" asks Frank Gavin, head greenkeeper at Uplands.

Yet that was what happened on Boxing Day when the newly-designed and reseeded fifth green at Uplands was opened for the Christmas Tree tournament.

* * *

It was inevitable of course with so many players about that there would be holes in one.

We believe the honor of scoring the first 1961 hole in one in Canada this year belongs to a member of the fair sex.

It happened at the Victoria Club in the early afternoon of Sunday Jan. 1, when Mrs. Bessie Wilson, playing with her husband Charles, aced the 150-yard second hole.

Mrs. Wilson had not previously scored a hole in one and she used a No. 4 iron for the job.

The following day at Gorge Vale there was another ace. Jack Storrie, one of the club's leading players holed out from the tee at the 14th hole at Gorge while playing with Earl Dye, Watson Finley and Hugh Fletcher. Jack used a No. 7 iron, and like Mrs. Wilson, he gained the coveted distinction for the first time.

It was at the 14th at Gorge Vale that the previous week 75-year-old James J. Moran scored his hole in one.

The second of the Victoria district winter medal competitions will be played on Sunday at Uplands. Entries confined to those with handicaps of nine or less should be made immediately at the players' home courses.

Among the early entries are Art Donaldson, the unattached Gorge Vale professional who won the first winter medal, and Ron MacLeod, the Jasper pro who finished runner-up.

* * *

We hear that Ted Bradshaw, one of the long-hitting youngsters of the Gorge Vale club, is going to join Bill Court as an assistant professional at Royal Colwood.

Bradshaw, who recently completed his apprenticeship at the Naval Dockyard, is a powerfully-built fellow who could quite easily make a name for himself in the game.

Ted will be one of quite a team of former Gorge Vale members now serving as professionals in the district. Laurie Carroll and Roy Chappell of Victoria learned their game at the Gorge, while Mel Carlow, assistant to Joe Pryke at Gorge, is also a former member of the club.

Hawks Win Fifth in Row

'Big M' Makes Big Move

Big Frank Mahovlich isn't just shooting for the National Hockey League goal record any longer. Suddenly, he's breathing down Bernie Geoffrion's neck for the league scoring championship as well.

"The Big M" of Toronto Maple Leafs made that clear in Toronto last night. He scored his 31th goal in 38 games, and set up linemates Red Kelly and Bob Nevin for two each to complete a five-point effort while Leafs were beating Detroit Red Wings, 6-4.

The five points boosted him from fourth to second place in the scoring race. He now has an even 50, just six behind Montreal's Geoffrion and two ahead of Dickie Moore. They also helped pull Leafs to within four points of the front-running Canadiens.

It was an especially-satisfying evening for Mahovlich, who always has trouble with the Wings and had scored only one goal against them all season going into last night's play. It was the first win over the Wings at Toronto this season. In four previous meetings there, Wings won one game and tied three.

Dick Duff scored Toronto's other goal. Howie Glover, with his first NHL hat trick, and Murray Oliver took care of Detroit's scoring.

Detroit's great Gordie Howe was taken to hospital early in the first period suffering from concussion and a gashed forehead after a collision with Toronto's Eddie Shack.

Quickly processed movies of the game revealed Howe suffered his injury when he landed on the ice forehead first, following a brush-collision with the Leafs' player.

The film also revealed that Shack saw Howe trying to set him up for a bodycheck, wheeled to his left inside the Detroit blueline and cracked his gloved right stick hand against Howe's shoulder as he whirled by.

Howe fell to the ice in a pool of blood, and it took 12 stitches to close the cut. Shack drew a major penalty. Howe was ordered to spend the night in hospital, with X-rays to be taken to determine extent of the injury.

Meanwhile, New York Rangers ignored a "win or else" ultimatum from coach Alf Pike and dropped a 3-2 decision to the resurgent Chicago Black Hawks at New York. Pike shook up his lineup and told players there would be plenty of changes made after the game if his club lost.

All the scoring was done in the third period, and the Hawks had to come from behind twice for their fifth straight victory. Stan Mikita scored the winner and his second goal of the night at 15.18, when he broke in alone on Gump Worsley, faked him to the ice, and lifted the puck into the empty net.

All-Star Tackle Eyed by Lions

VANCOUVER — B.C. Lions have a good chance of signing Minnesota All-American Tom Brown as well as end Pat Claridge and quarterback Bob Schloredt of Washinton, general-manager Herb Capozzi said yesterday.

Upon his return from watching the two teams in action in the Rose Bowl, Capozzi described Lions' chances as "good" on Brown and "very good" on Schloredt and Claridge. But, he added, nobody has signed anything yet.

Brown, the great tackle who is also on Baltimore Colts' negotiation list, is listening to several offers at the moment. One advantage for Lions is that the man doing their talking is coach Dave Skrein, who was Brown's coach in his freshman year at Minnesota. Brown, it is said, may come to Vancouver to combine a business career with football.

Claridge, a Vancouver-born end, is considered a cinch to join brother Bruce on the Lions. Schloredt is also considered to be committed to the Canadian club, but said yesterday in Honolulu that he is considering a postgraduate course in dentistry at McGill University in Montreal.

"I'm rather undecided about where I'll play right now," the Washington quarterback said.

TOURISTS TAKE IT EASY

BOURNEMOUTH (AP) — South Africa's touring rugby team crushed a team from the southeast counties of England 24-0 Tuesday.

Bonus Deer Season

Complaints of damage to orchards in the Creston area have moved the Department of Recreation and Conservation to reopen the deer and elk season there from Jan 7 to Feb. 28.

Animals of any age or sex may be shot in a small area along the Goat River and Arrow Creek.

Provisions of the existing game regulations and game tag regulations must be met. Therefore a person who has already taken his bag of elk or deer will be prohibited from hunting during this special open season.

Further information on the area may be obtained from local game wardens, or from fish and game headquarters, 567 Burrard, Vancouver.

Now Lolita

Raw Films Worrying Hollywood

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Will 1961 be the year of decision for Hollywood and its apparent determination to make movies more adult-erous than ever?

High industry sources talk officially in cliche-coated denials. But unofficially they are seriously worried about charges of Catholic, Protestant and Jewish clergymen.

SHOCK APPEAL

Says one top studio executive:

"The shock appeal of such raw films as Butterfield 8 and The Apartment have brought millions at the box-office, and now we have Lolita with us.

"Will the public buy a movie that deals with the sex relationship of a middle-aged man and a 12-year-old girl, no matter how artistically it is done? Personally, I doubt it."

BAD TIMING

The producer isn't against sex per se but believes that Hollywood has ill-timed its accent on adultery, homosexuality, dope and other frank screen themes.

"These are adult themes, but go to a movie house and try to find adults. The theatres are filled with impressionable teen-agers. They're the bulk of the audience."

CBC Beams Turn to Africa

OTTAWA (CP)—The CBC has been instructed to stop its multi-language radio broadcasts to some parts of Western Europe and instead start beaming English and French-language programs to Africa.

The switch has been ordered by the external affairs department.

The world's largest reflector telescope, a 200-inch reflector belonging to the California Institution of Technology, took about 12 years to build.

By DICK WILLIAMS

Erroll Garner has performed as soloist with the Cleveland Symphony and given concerts in New York's Town Hall and other music auditoriums. But in his early days, he wasn't so conversant with the classical music world.

"The first time I ever ran into Debussy was out in a California club," Garner recently recalled. "There was a big sign outside which said 'The Debussy of the Piano.' Down below were the names of the other players, including mine.

"During one of the intermissions, Kathryn Grayson and Johnny Johnson came backstage, I was troubled, I said to them, 'Man, you know what that cat, Dubussy, went and did? He didn't show up all night!'

"Well, after Miss Grayson stopped roaring, I found out who Debussy was."

An Assassin Will Strike!

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif. (UPI) — President-elect Kennedy will have a second term in the White House; Princess Margaret will bear a child—probably a boy—this April or July; a prominent world figure will be assasssinated within the next six months.

These are some of the predictions of British clairvoyant Maurice Woodruff, who claims no powers of "fortune telling" but says he does have a gift for looking into the future.

Many of England's leading entertainment and society figures swear by his predictions.

Woodruff issued a prediction printed in a London newspaper last July that Kennedy would be elected president.

He has no crystal ball, never goes into a trance and says: "When I do a job of work, I do it logically. Why put on a pair of earrings?"

In predicting Kennedy's re-election in 1964, Woodruff added that the president-elect would have a "stormy time" ahead of him in the next four years.

"I'm a little worried about business activity in the United States in the coming months," he said. "It will be rough going for about the next six months, but after that—in June or July—it will pick up again."

He foresaw the death within the next year of a well-loved world leader, but declined to name the figure.

"I never tell a person I see that he is going to die," Woodruff explained. "It would do no good. It might hurry along the death."

Woodruff also forecast for 1961:

West German Chancellor Adenauer will meet with oppositions strong enough to put him out of office.

English actor Peter Sellers will be made a knight by mid-year.

There is a very strong chance the monarchy of Spain will return to the throne in the next year.

Just how dependable are Woodruff's forecasts?

A recent series of his predictions appearing in a British magazine on well-known personalities proved to be correct in six out of seven cases. Some came true even before the articles went to press—several weeks after they were written.

Forced Rezoning in Saanich May Mean 'Lot' of Hassles'

Rezoning of privately-owned land by Saanich council to restrict it to the uses recommended in an overall plan for future development of Greater Victoria came under fire at the council's first meeting.

This was one of the aims for 1961 put forward by Reeve George Chatterton.

Coun. Leslie Passmore questioned council's moral and legal right to rezone land, possibly over the wishes of the owner.

"I think it would be a pretty tough council that would usurp the rights of an individual . . . for school purposes or any other purposes," he said. "I think we are going to have a lot of hassles on our hands."

Reeve Chatterton said he would not favor such rezoning unless there was a buyer available to take the land.

Coun. Stanley Murphy said landowners do not actually own their land, "they only hold title to it. A landowner cannot go into his property and take off the topsoil without the council's permission.

"The individual must surrender individual rights when he accepts community living," he said.

Saanich lands and planning committee will meet soon to consider the question. Coun. Murphy is chairman.

"JEST A SECOND"

"All right then, don't go to bed! I'll have obedience one way or another."

Crisis Talks

Kennedy Gets Briefing

NEW YORK (UPI) — President-elect Kennedy moved pre-inaugural headquarters Wednesday from Florida to a skyscraper hotel here and prepared to meet his defence secretary, Robert MacNamara, today under the shadow of the Cuban and Loatian crises.

The state department was keeping Kennedy fully informed of all information and moves in both trouble spots, through his secretary of state, Dean Rusk. Kennedy is to fly to Washington late Friday to confer with Rusk.

Kennedy and MacNamara will pick an army secretary today.

Controversial Editor All UBC Has Hired

VANCOUVER (CP) — A report that the Institute of Pacific Relations is in the process of moving to the University of British Columbia from New York was denied Wednesday by UBC president N. A. M. MacKenzie.

He stated categorically the institute "is not being transferred to UBC."

The New York report said the university offered the institute a free home when it hired William Holland, secretary-general of the institute, as head of its department of Asian studies.

Prof. Holland is also editor of the institute's quarterly journal, Pacific affairs, which figured repeatedly in Congressional inquires into alleged Communist infiltration into the U.S. government during the early 1950s.

Dr. Mackenzie said UBC invited Prof. Holland only in a personal capacity to head the Asian studies department.

"The university, by reason of its geographical position, has for many years offered courses in Asian studies and in bringing Prof. Holland to UBC we are planning to expand this important area," he said. Prof. Holland will also continue to edit the journal Pacific affairs.

Garden Notes

Lure for Your Buck

By M. V. CHESNUT, FRHS

I don't think the average backyard gardener realizes how important he is in the eyes of the seedsmen, plantsmen and nursery operators. All through the season, while you and I are occupied with our humdrum chores of weeding, hoeing and watering, skilled plant scientists in many parts of the world are beating their brains out trying to develop better flowers, better vegetables and better fruits, all with a view to coaxing a couple of those elusive bucks from our well-worn pocketbooks.

The new catalogues, now beginning to arrive, are full of these 1961 models of the plant world. One of the most interesting is a melon.

* * *

It is true that we don't have the right kind of climate for growing melons, as all of them come from areas where the summers are sizzling hot, but you could say the same thing about tomatoes and corn. The plant breeders have stepped in and evolved corn and tomato varieties which can be grown under our cool weather conditions, and now it appears the same development is taking place with melons.

There are varieties of watermelon and cantaloupe on the market already which can be grown here, although their culture isn't easy and you really need a coldframe to do the job properly. This year, though, the big news is in a Casaba melon — the big, exotic, greeny-yellow Persian melon that costs the earth when you buy one at the supermarket.

Up to now, all our imported Casaba melons have been grown in Mexico and the most southerly tier of states, and even in these hot climes it has taken from 120 to 140 days to produce ripe fruit from seed. The new Casaba "Sungold," developed by the University of New Hampshire, ripens its fruit in only 85 days, making a five-pound melon with golden skin and juicy, sugary greeny-white flesh.

* * *

We don't know yet, of course, how the Sungold melon will fare on Vancouver Island, but if it follows the pattern of tomato development, I think we have a sporting chance of growing it here. Our most successful tomatoes are those which were bred to ripen their fruits in the short-season northern areas, and I believe this will hold for the new Casaba melon. Even if it isn't successful in the open, it should be a pretty sure thing under frames or cloches.

Strangely enough, the name Sungold crops up again in another new fruit, this time an apricot developed by the University of Minnesota. Unlike the apricot varieties we grow here, Sungold needs a pollinator and the university has obligingly produced a husband for Sungold called Moongold. A pair of these trees is said to produce very heavy crops.

* * *

Here again, I think these plants, developed for the hard winters and short growing season of Minnesota, would fill a need here. In breeding an apricot for Minnesota, the university had to aim at winter-hardiness, of course, but it was necessary also to develop a tree which would blossom much later than most apricots, for spring comes late on the great plains.

We don't have winter-kill problems here, but we do have trouble with apricots which insist on blossoming too early in the year and get their blooms nipped by late frosts. This is why I believe the Sungold-Moongold combination would be an improvement over our present varieties.

Hollywood Today

For Marilyn—A Man!

HOLLYWOOD (NANA) — Have you made — and broken—your New Year's resolutions? Here are my wishes for some of the stars.

* * *

For Marilyn Monroe—a man, and that she will be content with her present lot in life. Elizabeth Taylor, that she can find a painless formula for reducing . . . same for roly-poly Jackie Gleason.

* * *

For Shirley MacLaine in 1961, my annual wish that she will see more of her husband, Steve Parker, who lives most of the time in Japan. Shirley has made a good start by flying to Tokyo to star for Steve in "My Geisha." But, what after that, what?

* * *

No more Debbie-Eddie-Liz stories in the fan magazines, and I hope the cover banner-lines will revert to honesty.

* * *

A play worthy of the talents of Lucille Ball. I'm told her "Wildcat" musical on Broadway is doing business. The star of I Love Lucy should be doing smash business!

* * *

I hope 1961 brings a son to Mrs. Clark Gable. What a pity Clark cannot be here to enjoy fatherhood with his first child!

* * *

My Jennifer Jones wish for '61 is to see her on the screen again. It has been years since this excellent actress faced a camera. We keep hearing she will be starred in "Tender Is the Night." Okay, Jennifer, do it.

* * *

For Gary Cooper, I wish good health. Gary has had too much illness in recent years. He feels better, and will feel better still, I'm sure, with the wonderful tribute the entire movie industry paid him the other night.

* * *

Lana Turner will have another child if my wish for her comes true. She has had grief to last her lifetime from her one and only—Cheryl. It is Lana's dearest wish that the courts will allow her daughter to share the new home with Lana and husband Fred May.

* * *

Sandra Dee, 18, blonde and cuddlesome—how will she fare in 1961? Will Bobby Darin, as famous for his ego as for his singing, make the young star happy? I think it's a shame that they didn't have a wedding with her friends and family present.

* * *

For Kim Novak, I think 1961 should yield her a husband. This beautiful girl will be 27 next birthday—or is it 28? Anita Colby was even more beautiful in her 20s—and Anita never married. Will it be the same for Kim? "I want to be sure," she explains. I've news for her: No one is ever sure—even after marriage sometimes.

* * *

To Frank Sinatra, I send this wish for 1961—that he will be very aware of his responsibilities as a friend of the new president.

* * *

And to Peter Lawford's mother, Lady Lawford, please, dear lady, be kinder—if only in print—to your only son. You should be proud that he is the brother-in-law of the man who will soon be at the helm of the U.S.

* * *

For Doris Day, I would wish more contact with the people who help to make her a star. It's nice to have a private life, but there are duties that go with fame and money.

Why Chest Failed!

Up to Agencies To Tell Public What's Needed

Failure of the recent Community Chest fund drive has led to considerable soul-searching among Victorians, who realize the need for the services its member agencies provide but cannot see any simple solution to the money problem. This is the last of a series of articles summing up the views of those connected with the Chest and many not connected with it, as to what can be done to improve the situation.

The Chest cannot run a popularity contest.

That is the bluntly-expressed view of Adrian Gilmore, who has filled the key post of executive secretary of the Community Chest for the past four years.

"If the directors feel the agencies are worth supporting, they should be supported," he said, "but public relations is up to the agencies themselves."

TELL MORE

The agencies must spend more time telling the public what they are able to do with the money this year . . . and what they are unable to do because of lack of money.

This plea, in essence, was repeated many times by Chest officials, volunteer workers, and interested citizens polled in the Colonist survey on reasons for the failure of the Chest this year.

Coun. John Watts of Oak Bay made a further point: "In all fairness it should be pointed out that, while there are some wrong agencies in the Chest, several, including the YMCA and YWCA, are there because the Chest originally pleaded with them to join up."

APPEALS BOARD

Meanwhile, Chamber of Commerce officials are trying to organize a charitable appeals review board for Greater Victoria. Preliminary talks have already been held with local groups. The board's function would be to screen all applications to hold fund drives and report its findings to the public.

Still to be settled, however, is whether the principal aim of the review board would be to save the public money or to channel the charity dollar to the worthiest causes.

OTHER DRIVES

Chest officials, on the whole, appeared satisfied at the amount raised in the face of tough opposition. Chest president Eric Mallett said citizens "dug deep" to assist building drives for Royal Jubilee Hospital and Victoria University.

Mr. Gilmore said there was no doubt these capital fund drives hurt the Chest, particularly in corporate giving division and among people who usually give large donations.

JOB FEAR

Many people queried in the "man-in-the-street" poll felt unemployment and fear of losing jobs if the recession gets worse also cut sharply into donations among workers on the job and at home.

But campaign chairman Bernard Van Aggelen disagreed. "Many things have been very influential (in the failure of the Chest), but I don't think we have more unemployment than other places which have reached their Chest goal," he said. But it could hurt the Chest badly next year if the situation doesn't improve.

NOT TOO LATE

Reeve George Murdoch of Oak Bay thinks it still isn't too late to put Greater Victoria's drive over the $350,000 goal. "Even at this late date," he said, "an appeal to public to donate $1 each, whether they have given before or not, would soon put this year's campaign over the top."

LET'S TALK

By Rudolf Flesch

I'm writing this on the day of a blizzard. The schools are closed, traffic is at a standstill, there's no newspaper to read, the phone circuits are blocked. Ordinary life has come to a stop.

The children, of course, are delighted. Even the three-year-old, who loves her nursery school dearly, proudly chimes in with the older ones, "Hurrah! No school!".

Grownups are supposed to be above such feelings. They shouldn't be. They ought to be grateful to the elements for providing regularly some irregularities of daily life.

In theory, everything is running on schedule these days. Business is being carried on, the mail goes through, appointments are being made and kept and everybody is supposed to be at a certain place at certain hours and usually is.

Often We're Bored

We've reached a point in civilization where we can rely on everything being regular from the commuter's train to the garbage disposal and daily life has ceased to be an endless struggle with petty annoyances. But we've paid for it by an unvarying routine that never stops and naturally we often get bored. That's why it's human nature to welcome a blizzard.

Weekends are fine, but after all, they come 52 times a year. Even holidays, though rarer, have become an annual routine. But a blizzard! Ah, there's something else again.

You go to bed on Sunday night, all prepared to wake up to the usual Monday morning, and surprise, surprise!—eight hours later you find yourself in a world full of adventure, where going to work or to school is out of the question, and the prospect of a breathtaking foot march to the supermarket looms up as the major day's activity.

Much Too Regular

Our life is much too regular. We ought to follow the example of little Catholic Austria, where they have any number of minor Saints' days and semi-official holidays that fill the calendar with perennial uncertainty.

Will schools be open this year at the Feast of the Annunciation? Will the banks close on St. Leopold's Day? Nobody can ever be quite sure and such days are kept as a source of annual minor adventure.

Serious thinkers object to blizzards and additional holidays on the grounds that work is interrupted, time and money are lost and anyway such uncertainties are just an awful nuisance.

They don't realize that human nature will always crave a breaking of routine. If there are too many winter weeks without a blizzard, your body and soul revolt and sooner or later you find yourself staying home for a week with a nice, enjoyable cold.

Seaway Workers Seek Wage Boost

OTTAWA (CP)—Canadian workers on the St. Lawrence Seaway are seeking a general pay increase of about 16 cents an hour in negotiations for a new one-year contract.

Talks so far are said to have been amicable, with good progress made toward a possible settlement.

B.C., Ottawa Still Hope Ike Can Sign Power Pact

OTTAWA (CP)—Hope that meetings with the U.S. beginning today will complete details of a draft Columbia River development treaty were expressed Wednesday night after federal-B.C. talks.

Agreement with U.S. negotiators would enable the signing of a long-term treaty before President-elect Kennedy takes over.

ASSURANCES

Meanwhile, details remain to be worked out with B.C. on assurances that the federal government feels are necessary to execute its obligations under the proposed treaty.

No date was set for a further meeting pending developments in the U.S.

The B.C. assurances will be necessary before actual treaty ratification by Parliament and Congress but this should be completed in time, federal informants said.

They saw nothing to worry about in the fact that B.C. will refer both the Columbia plan and the proposed rival Peace River project to its provincial energy board for comparison of economic feasibility. This might speed up needed surveys.

Quebec Offers Transit Plan

OTTAWA (CP)—Quebec unveiled Wednesday a 10-point set of principles for a national transportation policy that would co-ordinate all forms of transport in the long-term interests of Canada.

Breaking its traditional silence on transportation matters, the Quebec government told the royal commission on transportation it favors controls on rates and operations of railways, trucks, ships, aircraft and pipelines.

However, it did not spell out how the various forms of transportation could be co-ordinated and controlled for the good of the country.

Nobody Told Him

TORONTO (CP)—The dinner marking Len Stewart's retirement from Scarborough township council was a good one. Mr. Stewart wishes someone had told him about it.

Council members presented him with a tray—in absentia.

Docks at Ogden Point were busy in 1960 as 353 ships entered the port of Victoria carrying more goods than ever before in history. —(Colonist photo.)

353 Deepwater Ships

1960 Best Year For City's Port

By IAN STREET

The port of Victoria chalked up a record year in 1960 with ships berthing at Ogden Point docks at the rate of almost one a day throughout the year.

The total of 353 deepwater vessels entering the port last year tops the previous best postwar figure of 344 in 1953, and there is an expectation that the coming year will be even better for port business.

GRAIN SHIPMENTS

Grain shipments, one of the major cargoes shipped from here, are running about 1,500,000 bushels ahead of last year at this time, C. C. Head, manager of Victoria Grain Elevator Ltd., said yesterday.

Meanwhile, shipments of lumber and plywood which make up the bulk of Victoria's export business are holding their own, with what one spokesman for a big producer described as "quite a line-up of ships" waiting to load forest products at Ogden Point.

GROSS TONNAGE

Gross tonnage of ships using the port last year smashed all previous records. It totalled for the 353 vessels 2,728,697 tons. The previous record year, 1953, tallied 344 ships with a total gross tonnage of 2,489,966.

Capt. G. Ronald Newell, harbormaster, said 183 ships, gross tonnage 1,439,234, entered the port of Victoria in the first six months of last year. There was a decline to 170 vessels with gross tonnage of 1,289,463 in the second half of 1960. Biggest month of the year for shipping was April with 41 ships using this port.

GRAIN EXPORTS

Grain exports are expected to be heavy from now until March with a large bulk carrier due this weekend. Year-end totals for grain exports are tallied after July 31 and lumber and plywood shipments haven't yet been completely recorded for 1960.

Government-Aided Work Will Give 4,000 Man-Days

Victoria city's $190,000 government-aided winter work program will provide about 4,000 man-days of employment this season, City Engineer James Garnett said yesterday.

Among projects are installation of local-improvement curbs, gutters and sidewalks, $84,000; curb construction for widening of Quadra between Hillside and Tolmie, $40,000; widening of Fort near the Junction, $10,000; cement-lining of water mains, $25,000, and several smaller jobs.

Flu Going Around

Measles Onslaught Still Harasses City

Measles onslaught in the Greater Victoria area shows no signs yet of slackening, medical health officer Dr. Elizabeth Mahaffy said yesterday.

In the week ended Jan. 3, Dr. Mahaffy said, 85 cases were reported in the Saanich and South Vancouver Island health district and 28 in the Victoria - Esquimalt district, "and we know there are a lot more cases than that."

CHEERFUL SIDE

On the cheerful side, Dr. Mahaffy said she hadn't heard much since Christmas of a throat, chest and stomach ailment caused by an unidentified virus which was prevalent before the holiday.

But, she said there is some ordinary 'flu going around— "We've had a few cases reported."

Dominion

Hotel Room Fire Laid To Cigaret

Fire which broke out shortly before 2 a.m. yesterday in a room at the Dominion Hotel, 759 Yates, was noticed by the occupant of a neighboring room and extinguished by firemen with hand equipment before much damage was done.

The room had been occupied for about a month by H. Allan of Calgary, and it is thought a cigaret had been left burning on a table, setting fire to drapes and curtains, and damaging a wall before being extinguished.

Bottle Drive

A bottle drive conducted by First Juan de Fuca Scouts and Cubs will be held Saturday from 9.30 a.m. to noon in the Langford district.

B.C. Labor Group To Present Brief

The B.C. Federation of Labor will present its annual brief to the provincial cabinet this morning. The brief will contain major recommendations to aid the growing ranks of unemployed in B.C.

Gorge View Society

$33,583 Contract Let For Old Peoples' Home

Contract for construction of a $33,583 six-suite building for the Gorge View Society senior citizens housing development was awarded last night to Herb Bate Construction Ltd.

The building will provide accommodation for four single people and two married couples.

The building is the second to be erected on the 5½-acre property on Harriet Road. Completion is expected April 30.

Construction of the buildings is sponsored by Gorge View Cottage Society of the United Church of Canada.

'Needy' Hire Cab To Get Welfare Cheque

PORT ALBERNI — Mayor Loran Jordon thinks it's time welfare officials started taking a closer look at the financial straits of recipients because "quite a number hire taxis to pick up their cheques."

"I don't think that is what social welfare was set up for in the first place," he told this city's first 1961 council meeting. He said Port Alberni's social service cost during 1960 soared $32,000 over estimates.

Backed by Reeves

Two New Ferries Urged by Mayor

Mayor Percy Scurrah yesterday suggested the provincial government should order two new ferries instead of one, to cope with tourist traffic generated by the Century 21 Exposition and Victoria's centenary in 1962.

"The government ferries have been a tremendous success and from what I can gather there are numerous times when they can't handle present traffic," he said.

"I'm wondering if the time hasn't arrived to request the government to build two new ferries instead of one, because it has been proven that if you have transportation you create a tremendous amount of business, and while I don't have figures on the traffic, I suspect that there will be a need for two extra boats."

The reeves of Saanich and Esquimalt supported Mayor Scurrah's suggestion.

INCREASED BUSINESS

"I think the indications of an increase in the amount of business are such that investigations should be made," Reeve George Chatterton said. "With the city's centennial and the Century 21 world's fair in Seattle in 1962 a fourth ferry could be necessary."

Reeve A. C. Wurtele said he felt the government ferry system was operating on a "shoestring" with only two ferries.

WELL PATRONIZED

"If anything happened to one of those ferries the whole schedule would collapse," he said. "It is apparent the service is well patronized and they could have three ferries on the run and one held for a spare.

"The fourth one could be put on the run for the busy tourist season."

Reeve George Murdoch of Oak Bay declined to comment on the suggestion.

Plan Discussed

Health Merger Closer

Greater Victoria municipalities are expected to consider early this year the unification, to some degree, of the public health units now serving the southern end of Vancouver Island.

A proposal along this line was discussed in closed session last week by city council and Deputy Health Minister Dr. G. F. Amyot.

It apparently would involve little if any loss of local autonomy and provide more service at the same or less cost.

The southern end of the Island is served by three units. They are the Victoria-Esquimalt health unit, with Victoria, Esquimalt and the Greater Victoria school board as members; the Saanich and South Vancouver Island health unit, serving Saanich municipality, the rest of the Saanich peninsula and other areas south of the Malahat, and the Oak Bay health department.

Current proposal is believed to be that an over-all metropolitan board be set up to co-ordinate the services, so that health measures throughout the area would be uniform and resources of all three districts could be used in emergency or for common convenience.

New Mariner Has Hull in Tow

Island Tug's Latest Plowing Home

The latest addition to Island Tug and Barge Ltd.'s growing fleet of deepsea and coastal tugboats is scheduled to arrive here about Jan. 23.

Capt. Roy Blake, 1937 Newton, who flew to New York to take command of the new Island Mariner radioed yesterday his position was some 500 miles north of Balboa, port at the Pacific end of the Panama Canal.

The message to ITB headquarters here said the tug was making a steady 10 knots towing the hull of another 100-foot long tug which will be completed in Victoria and added to the ITB fleet at a later date. The Jan. 23 arrival date depends on continuing good weather.

The new tug revives the name of a veteran steam tug recently sold for scrap at the age of 53.

The latest acquisition to the ITB fleet will be used in coastal towing. She was built in England and picked up the hull in New York.

Victoria Shipyards

Last-Ditch Effort May Stop Strike

Shipyard union leaders last night decided on a last-ditch effort to stave off strike action that would paralyze operations in two major Victoria shipyards, already hard hit by lack of shipbuilding contracts.

A spokesman for Victoria Metal Trades Council said some 4,000 members of nine local unions affected would be asked to reconsider a conciliation offer of 20 cents over two years with loss of some benefits.

FURTHER ACTION

Decision on what further action would be taken, the official said, would not be taken before Jan. 16, earliest by which views of all the unions concerned would be known.

J. J. MacNeil, secretary-treasurer of Victoria Metal Trades Council, said following a meeting of shipyard union representatives held here last night he felt "the door to negotiations is still open to both sides."

TWO YEARS

He said the conciliation offer of 20 cents in increases over a two-year period was acceptable —"we refused the methods by which it was to be awarded."

Major points of contention in the proposed settlement, said Mr. MacNeil, include the addition of a half hour of work to the second and third shifts without further pay, and loss of a portion of bonus time.

LOSS OF BENEFITS

Unions contend the proposals would mean loss of benefits obtained in past years.

At present, union officials estimate, more than 1,500 of the 4,000 members of shipyard unions are unemployed and many others are working in their trades in the construction industry.

Symphony Board

Stand Demanded On Music Study

Victoria Symphony Society president chairman Jack Barraclough last night called on symphony directors to take a definite stand on the Chant education report.

He said the report placed no importance on music study and added the society would not be doing its duty toward the community if no stand was taken.

"There is plenty of time for students to work at school and work at the arts as well," said Mr. Barraclough. "We must take a stand on this or be prepared to eliminate student concerts that take place during school hours."

He urged directors to give the problem serious thought before the next meeting.

Student Concerts Set for February

Victoria Symphony Society last night set aside Feb. 20 and 27 as dates for student concerts in the Greater Victoria area.

Concerts are open to Saanich and Sooke school districts and private schools as well as students from Greater Victoria school district.

They will be held in the Royal Theatre starting at 9 a.m. and consist of two sessions of 90 minutes each.

Student concerts are also planned for Cobble Hill and Duncan. Tentative dates are Feb. 10 and 24 respectively.

Union Fine 'Just'

Labor officials last night attacked newspapers for giving prominence to Vancouver reports that a student who worked part time in a food store was fined $5 for not attending union meetings.

None of the speakers, however, challenged statements that 16-year-old Craig Anderson of North Vancouver had paid almost 55 per cent of his $38.10 earnings to the Retail Food and Drug Clerks Union.

ANOTHER CASE

"This is just another case of the press going all out to attack labor," Victor Midgely, carpenters union official, told Victoria Labor Council delegates.

Mr. Midgely said students who belong to the clerks union enjoy "wages and conditions second to none."

CONGRATULATE

He said the union was justified in levying the fine and added: "The press should congratulate the retail clerks' union for trying to educate these younger workers in the democratic tradition of the trades union movement by getting them to attend union meetings."

Music Group Meets

Victoria Musical Art Society's studio group will hold its monthly meeting Friday at the home of Kathie McColm, 2536 Thompson.

First Budget $10,249,950

City council has received a $10,249,950 provisional budget for 1961 which, Mayor Percy Scurrah said, "doesn't mean a thing."

Last year's civic budget amounted to $9,400,000. The provisional budget, city comptroller James Bramley told council, is a formality and doesn't necessarily indicate what revenues or expenditures will be—"Just what I think they might be.".

Witnesses' Rally Starts on Friday

Nearly 1,000 Jehovah's Witnesses from all Island centres south of Parksville are expected to attend a three-day circuit assembly in S. J. Willis Junior High School starting Friday.

World's Hungry Still Wait For Taste of B.C. Food

Peter Bruton's Capital Notebook

"JUST A GESTURE:" Remember last spring when Premier Bennett accused Ottawa of not doing enough for the millions of refugees and hungry people in the world?

That was the time he described Ottawa's decision to allow 100 tubercular refugees into Canada as "just a gesture." And he grandiosely appointed the Premier's Committee for World Relief under the chairmanship of Health Minister Eric Martin.

Then there was the fund to be used to buy B.C. foods for underprivileged regions.

Remember how the provincial cabinet gave an outright grant of $50,000 to the fund and then announced that it would match, dollar for dollar, voluntary contributions up to another $475,000?

There hasn't been very much publicity given to the Premier's Committee for World Relief since then but a little checking unearths this fact: The $50,000 "outright grant" has not been touched and still remains in a B.C. government account. And nobody sent in any contributions to be matched dollar for dollar.

Maybe it was all "just a gesture."

HARD ON BLOOD PRESSURE: A medal for tolerance is surely due one Greater Victoria store owner who has just undergone a truly shattering experience.

One of his employees was driving around a corner and did not quite make it. He crashed into boss's car which in turn was sent flying through the store's large plate glass window.

The tolerance angle is the fact that the employee was not fired.

The quality of mercy is not strained—well, perhaps just a little bit.

DISAPPEARANCE ACT: Resident who decided to celebrate the birth of the New Year against his wife's wishes must have thought he was seeing things— or rather the lack of things—when he returned home in the wee hours.

Every stick of furniture except a camp stretcher, a chair, a plate, a knife and a fork were gone, as was the wife.

SORRY, WRONG YEAR: The "what's-on-in-town" board displayed in the lobby of the Strathcona Hotel is due for a little revising.

One of the attractions advertised is the appearance of Vancouver songstress Eleanor Collins at "The Scene," the Wharf Street jazz hangout. That billing should have been taken down after the weekend of Nov. 4.

NEW YEAR'S ROUNDS: A surprise visit to the old soldiers in Veterans Hospital here was paid yesterday by Lieutenant-Governor George R. Pearkes, VC.

"I knew you boys couldn't get up to see me so I thought I'd just pop down and visit you," he confided to the former servicemen, many of whom served under the general in the past.

The visit lasted for more than an hour.

First Glimpse at Six of the World's 12 Best-Dressed Women

Queen Sirikit of Thailand, left, and Mrs. Loel Guiness, right, of Paris and Palm Beach, are among the women chosen for the 1960 list of the world's 12 best-dressed women. The list is selected in the New York Couture Group's annual poll of style experts and society leaders.

Britain's Princess Alexandra of Kent, left, and Mrs. John F. Kennedy, wife of the president-elect, were named on the 1960 list. They were chosen by the Couture Group which annually names the women considered to have the most distinguished taste in dress.

Mrs. Norman K. Winston, left, of New York and Paris, and actress Audrey Hepburn, right, are two more on the best-dressed list. The Couture Group annually asks some 2,500 style experts and society leaders to make the choices.—(AP Wirephotos.)

WHAT'S COOKING

By LOUISE MOORE

When you wish to soothe the seamy side of wedded bliss, bring on a big luscious pie.

But, first of all, it's the pastry so many of our readers complain about. They just can't get the hang of it—and yet it is the easiest thing to make.

Too much water, too heavy handling, in my opinion, are the cause of tough pastry, and a poor recipe, of course, has its drawbacks.

* * *

And if you are having trouble with the rolling, get yourself one of those pie crust moulders. All you do is flour the top of the mould, which is a circle the size needed for a nine-inch pie crust. Place dough in centre and roll toward sides, and it cuts off by itself as you roll over the edge.

You then place pie plate upside down on dough, flip over, and crust falls into plate.

* * *

To begin with, a pie crust is more easily made and is better if all ingredients are fairly cold. Use a pastry blender to work in the fat, otherwise the heat of the fingers tends to make the fat greasy.

Mixing can be done efficiently by working quickly and using a pastry blender or two knives. If the room is warm and the fat shows evidence of melting, place the blended fat and flour mixture into the refrigerator to cool before proceeding.

* * *

After the flour and fat are blended to the size of peas it is time to add the water—cold from the tap. Simply dribble it over the mixture evenly so that the fat-flour particles are dampened sufficiently to hold them together without sticking. This is the most important operation in pastry making.

To be certain enough water has been added, the lumps or balls are pressed gently to see if they stick together. If they don't, simply add a few more drops of cold water, gently press the dough into balls with the hands and divide preparatory to rolling.

An hour's chilling is plenty, and the crust won't be any the worse for rolling out without any chilling, although it may be a little more difficult to handle.

TIPS FOR PARENTS

By HELEN R. HEWSON

She was small and dainty, a three-year-old with enormous eyes and timid as a mouse.

She stood in the doorway and one could sense the push and pull of conflicting emotions, pulled forward by her mother's comand to come and "say how do you do, dear," drawn back by her own timidity and uncertainty.

She came slowly into the living room, shook hands silently and moved over to the window.

Her mother was called from the room. A guest stretched out a friendly hand. "Here's a lovely soft cushion, just right for a little girl." She sat down obediently.

Presently the tenseness left her small body and she relaxed with a little sigh against the comforting arm.

Her mother returned. "Edith, jump down, you mustn't crush Mrs. B's pretty dress."

Mrs. B protested, but mother said sharply, "I will not have her monopolizing my guests."

And the conversation turned to the dreadful children who make entertaining a misery for parents and guests.

This little girl would be trained to be pleasant and considerate, her mother said firmly.

How is this apcomplished? Not by demanding stiff, formal behavior from small children.

* * *

Mother's smile, her hand holding the tiny fingers, a quiet, "This is our little girl, Edith," will do much to help the small child feel comfortable with strangers.

In a few moments she should be excused and free to go to her own lunch or play.

Children who are pleasant and considerate with guests are children whose social experiences with adults have been pleasant and sensible, appropriate to their years.

They have not been exploited or used as show pieces by fond and foolish parents.

Cost of Living Remains at Peak

OTTAWA (CP) — A four-month autumn rise in the cost of living in Canada was checked in November as the consumer price index for Dec. 1 held at 129.6, unchanged from Nov. 1.

The index, reported by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics, still was a record high level following the rise of 2.1 points between August and November.

The stability of living costs in November was due to a decline in food prices, which offset minor increases in shelter and clothing costs.

Honeymoon in Portland

Sprays of yellow chrysanthemums and holly decorated the altar in the Church of Our Lord for the wedding of Barbara Anne, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas A. Burge of Duncan, and CPO Ronald Dennison H. Webster, RCN, son of Mrs. M. E. Webster of Victoria and the late Mr. Webster.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a dress styled with white velvet bodice with scoop neckline and lily point sleeves. The bouffant skirt of white Swiss organza had a contour hemline. A coronet of sequins held her finger tip veil and she carried Talisman roses and lily of the valley.

Bridesmaid Miss Jean Chaplin wore a short, full-skirted gown of pastel green brocade and headband of green net. Yellow roses formed her cascade bouquet.

The bride's sister, Miss Suzanne Burge, was flower girl and wore a full-skirted dress of pastel green organdy with white sash and yellow and white headband. She carried a basket filled with white feathered carnations and yellow rosebuds.

CPO Donald F. Wood, RCN, was best man and Mr. Dennis Shulbrook, Mr. Jack Smith and Master Donald Burge showed guests to pews marked with scarlet poinsettas.

Bishop D. A. G. Rankilor officiated at the ceremony and during the signing of the register Mrs. Mary Youson sang "The Lord's Prayer."

At the reception held at the Olde England Inn, Mr. Duncan Lorimer proposed the toast to the bride.

Leaving on a wedding trip to Portland, Ore., the bride travelled in a tailored sea blue wool suit with white and blue accessories. Mr. and Mrs. Webster will reside at 1000 Craigdarroch Road.

Holiday News at Fulford

FULFORD — Highlights of the New Year's festivities at Fulford were gay but quiet. Mr. and Mrs. A. Hepburn held their annual Open House party with neighbors and visitors dropping in. At midnight, a large crowd of friends sang Auld Lang Syne. Refreshments were served and earlier in the evening, square-dancing and card games were enjoyed.

At the Fulford Hall, a very successful dance, sponsored by the Hall Committee was held. An orchestra from the Victoria College, the Five Sharps, was in attendance.

Mrs. Rickards

Founder's Granddaughter Dies at 93 in England

By JAMES K. NESBITT

Mrs. Edward Rickards, 93, last surviving granddaughter of Sir James Douglas, died a few days ago in England, according to word received by her kinfolk, Mr. and Mrs. D. B. F. Bullen.

Her death leaves but three granddaughters of the founder of Victoria, in 1843, and the father of British Columbia, in 1858 — John Douglas and Col. Chichester Harris of Victoria, and James Douglas in London.

Mrs. Rickards, though her roots went deep into the political, geographical and historical soil of British Columbia, had never been here. She was born in Scotland, married a British army officer, lived much of her life in India and the Far East.

Her parents were Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Grant Dallas, who were married in Victoria in 1858. Mrs. Dallas was Jane, second daughter of James Douglas, and his wife Amelia.

Dallas, after whom the Dallas Road was named, was chief manager here of the Hudson's Bay Company and Puget Sound Agricultural Companies. He and his wife left here in 1861, when he became H.B.C. governor of the Northwest Territories, and they never returned, going to Scotland to live.

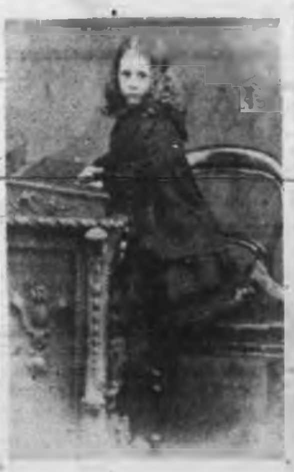
The Colonist noted their departure: "The steamship Panama went to sea yesterday. She carried away about 20 passengers, among whom we noticed Lady Franklin, Miss Cracroft and Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Dallas. As the vessel left the dock the band of H.M.S. Topaz played 'Auld Lang Syne' and other appropriate airs in compliment to Mr. and Mrs. Dallas and Lady Franklin, who were leaving our shores, probably never to return."

Sir James Douglas, when he went to Scotland after his retirement, romped with granddaughter Cecelia Arbuthnot Dallas, who is now dead in her great age. She was one of his favorites and he wrote home to his family here to tell them about her.

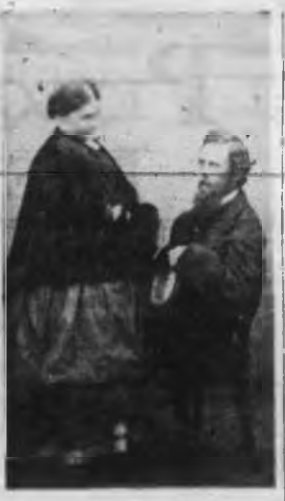
Douglas, a great letter-writer, once wrote to her mother, his daughter Jane: "Another year is past and gone and here we are assembled on another anniversary of your natal day. How many old recollections it recalls of your birth, infancy and riper years, and how vividly it awakens in our minds the most warm and grateful emotions. Can it be otherwise when we consider the many blessings you enjoy, in a kind husband and the society of your dear children, who, like olive branches, are shooting up around you to become your stay and solace in advancing years."

Dallas died in England in 1882, and his wife, in Scotland, in 1909.

Mrs. Rickards leaves two daughters, Mrs. Pellow Pye in England and Mrs. Alistair Campbell in Scotland, and they, like their mother, have never been to Victoria.



Granddaughter of Sir James — a child in Inverness, Scotland — one of the olive branches.



MR. AND MRS. ALEXANDER GRANT DALLAS.

Your Problems

By Ann Landers

Dear Ann Landers: I found something in my son's room today that just made me sick. If I hadn't been snooping I would confront him with it.

This summer he worked and didn't seem to save much money. I came across the key to his chest, and snooped, hoping to find that he had stashed away a few dollars. Instead I found an assortment of disgusting hand-drawn pictures. I didn't show these things to his father because he's a short-tempered man and would probably have thrown the boy out of the house.

I'm not a goody-goody mother who thinks her own children are perfect, but I must say this was a shock. He's 17, an excellent student, a regular churchgoer and has never caused us any trouble. What shall I do?—H.M.

Dear H.M.: You must not let the boy know you found the pictures. Most young people see some pornographic material at one time or another.

Broach the subject in an off-hand way, (perhaps you can point out something in a magazine which is borderline.) Make the point that people who get kicks from dirty pictures are not grown up regardless of their age. Understating your view point will be more effective than clobbering the boy.

* * *

Dear Ann Landers: A friend of mine who comes from a cultured and educated family announced that her engagement is off. We don't know who broke it, but we don't feel it makes any difference. We think she should return the engagement gifts and give the fellow back the ring.

The girl has switched the engagement ring to her other hand and told me she has no intention of returning it.

I can't imagine a girl wanting to keep a ring that belonged to a fellow she didn't want to marry — or one who didn't want to marry her. The ring is very beautiful and it must have put him back plenty. What do you say—PENNY.

Dear Penny: The girl definitely should return the engagement gifts. She may keep the ring however, if he broke the engagement. Nonetheless, I'm at a loss to understand why a girl would want to keep a ring which symbolizes a shattered romance. But some girls do. Perhaps it's comfort for the ego to be able to say, "Well, at least I got something out of the skunk."

Dear Ann Landers: What do you think of a husband who says, "Tomorrow is your birthday! Gee, honey, I almost forgot . . . what do you want?" And then when you tell him he says, "I've only got a few bucks, could you make me a loan?" And then when you give him $4 to put toward your birthday gift he comes home the next day and says, "I hope you don't mind but a guy at the shop offered to sell me his bowling ball at a real bargain so I used your birthday money." End of story. —GIFTLESS.

Dear End: Next year give him a quarter and tell him to buy you a card.

Confidential to Dumbest Woman Alive: You aren't dumb — you're just not informed. Many people have written to me about the same problem. I can't discuss it in print, but your doctor can give you literature which will be helpful. Don't feel ashamed or guilty. You're not alone.

If alcohol is robbing you of someone you love of health and dignity, send for Ann Landers' booklet, "Help for the Alcoholic," enclosing with your request 20 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Miss Warburton Retires After 41 Years' Service

Miss Emily Warburton this week retired after 41 years with the B.C. Telephone Company.

She was honored at luncheons, dinners and parties prior to her retirement, and Mr. H. Bourne, general traffic manager, presented to her a navy blue Morocco purse and gift enclosure on behalf of the traffic, plant, commercial and ex-employees of Victoria, Vancouver and Island districts.

Her company career began on Feb. 19, 1919, when she became an operator in Victoria. Since then she has always been associated with the handling of telephone calls, as supervisor in 1923; assistant chief operator in 1926 and then to district supervisor, district traffic superintendent, and finally, district traffic chief since 1949.

With seven brothers and sisters in various parts of Canada and relatives here, in Winnipeg and in the United States, Emily Warburton will not be lonely now that she has retired.

"Travel is definitely on the agenda," she says quietly, "but I intend to take a rest first. I'm going to Tacoma to visit my nieces.

She is a member of the Children's Ward of the Royal Jubilee Hospital of which she was president for eight years; the Victoria Business and Professional Women's Club; the St. John's Anglican Church Woman's Auxiliary of which she has been secretary and president; the St. John's Church and the choir where she sang for 20 years.

Here's a diet plan for weight control you can stick to!

a new sustaining meal that you drink. And a plan that lets you lose pounds quickly and safely while satisfying your appetite!

With the MinVitine weight control diet plan developed by scientists at the famous Ovaltine Laboratories, you can lose unwanted pounds. Read how you achieve the weight you want without counting calories, while helping to maintain your health and satisfying your appetite!

Almost any weight control diet plan can take off weight, but if you have ever tried to diet, you know that staying with the plan is the big problem. The scientists at the Ovaltine Laboratories were aware of this—so as specialists in nutrition, they developed this new diet plan—MinVitine. It gives you satisfying nourishment at your regular meal times, yet cuts down on weight-building calories. In fact, MinVitine furnishes only 900 calories per day!

MinVitine comes in a jar which contains enough for three meals and a bedtime snack. You simply mix it with cold water, making a delicious drink with a texture much like a malted milk. This is your MinVitine "meal", one that restricts calories to 225, and supplies you with minerals, vitamins and wholesome nourishment you may need while on your diet plan.

You'll be delighted to see how quickly and steadily you lose weight when you follow the MinVitine plan according to directions. And you'll find it's easy to stay on your MinVitine Diet Plan because it helps satisfy your appetite. When you have achieved the weight-level you want, it's simple to stay there. Continue MinVitine by using the plan one or two days a week.

Naturally, it's wise for anyone who is dieting, or considering it, to keep in touch with his physician. Today, more and more people are turning to diets which help maintain good nutritional health, like the MinVitine Plan, under the guidance of their doctors.

New MinVitine comes in three delicious flavours—chocolate, butterscotch and wonderful new coffee! Look for it. MinVitine is a weight control diet plan you can stick to. You know it's good because it comes from the makers of Ovaltine!

Funeral services will be held in McCall Bros.' Floral Funeral Chapel, Johnson and Vancouver Sts., on Thursday, January 5th, at 2.15 p.m., Flt. Lieut. Hewett of Comox, B.C., officiating. Interment in Colwood Burial Park.

STRONACH—In Victoria, B.C., on Tuesday, January 3, 1961, Peter Murray Stronach, aged 77 years, of 169 Olive Street; born in Aberdeen, Scotland, and a resident of Victoria for the past 48 years. Besides his loving wife, Annie Sophia, at the residence, he is survived by two brothers, Charles Stronach of Nanaimo, B.C., and George Stronach in Moose Jaw, Sask.; two sisters, Mrs. J. (Margaret) Mitchell of Nanaimo and Miss Barbara Stronach in Aberdeen, Scotland; also several nieces and nephews. The late Mr. Stronach went overseas with the 67th Regiment in the First World War. He was a life member of the St. Andrew's and Caledonian Society, and a member of the Pro Patria Branch of the Canadian Legion.
Funeral services will be conducted in McCall Bros.' Floral Funeral Chapel, Johnson and Vancouver Streets, on Saturday, January 7, at 1.15 p.m., Rev. Dr. J. L. W. McLean officiating. Interment in Royal Oak Burial Park.

TURNER—In Victoria on January 3, 1961, Esther Louise Turner of 817 McClure Street, aged 73 years; born in London, England, and a resident of Victoria for the past 35 years, widow of the late William George Turner. She leaves to mourn her loss two sons, William George and Charles Stanley, both of Victoria; two grandchildren; and one brother, Ernest Bobby, in Belfast, Ireland. The late Mrs. Turner was a member of the Pro Patria Branch of the Canadian Legion.
Funeral services will be conducted in McCall Bros.' Floral Funeral Chapel, Johnson and Vancouver Streets, on Friday, January 6, at 10.30 a.m., Canon T. W. Scott officiating. Interment in Royal Oak Burial Park.

8 CARDS OF THANKS

We wish to express our deep gratitude to our many friends and relatives, also to the sisters and nurses of St. Joseph's Hospital and Dr. Conn for their kindness and sympathy, the beautiful floral offerings, cards and spiritual bouquets received during our recent bereavement.—The Joshua Smith family.

Miss Emily Parsons wishes to express her sincere thanks and gratitude to her many friends for their kindness and sympathy in the loss of her beloved friend and lifelong companion, Miss Louise Smith.

Winning Contract

By HOWARD SCHENKEN and RICHARD L. FREY

One of the paradoxes of contract bridge bidding casts doubt on the axiom that a straight line is the shortest distance between two points. The bidding that starts most directly toward one contract may, in the end, lead to another, while bidding that seems to veer away from a contract may end up there after all.

This deal from the Intercity Championship match between New York and Los Angeles turned out to be worth 13 IMPs to Los Angeles, which eventually won the match by 1.

Pass	1 ♣	Pass	1 ♡
Pass	2 ♣	Pass	2 ♠
Pass	3 ♡	Pass	4 ♡
All Pass

Opening lead: ◇ 7

The bidding shown was the way the hand was bid in the closed room, before it came out to be shown on the Bridge-O-Rama to the crowd of some 500 spectators who watched all four sections of the match. North's first rebid of two clubs seems clear-cut. South's spade bid was intended to feel out the prospects of a diamond stopper and a no-trump contract, and while we would slightly prefer a rebid of two no-trump on the North hand there is nothing so seriously wrong with Kahn's bid of three hearts that it should have been punished as it was.

Against the four heart contract, the diamond opening picked off a fast defensive trick in that suit and thereafter the bad break in trumps forced South to lose three more tricks and the game.

In the other room, the crowd heard Adams (North) and Erdos (South) bid the hand more successfully. It is their style for the opener to give the responding hand an immediate raise holding three cards in his trump suit. So, when South bid one heart North raised to two. Far from pushing them into the heart game, it steered them away from it. When South rebid two spades, North bid two no-trump. South of course carried on to three and with nine tricks back to back against any lead there can be little question that L.A. reached a somewhat superior contract. Whether it was superior to the extent of the IMPs it fetched is an academic question. It was certainly the winning bid.

Tension, Hilarity Wreck Kasavubu Prestige Tour

LULUABOURG (Reuters) — Congolese President Joseph Kasavubu has completed a fantastic three-day visit to divided Kasai Province—a visit packed with tension and tragedy, as well as with confusion and hilarity.

In the course of the tour which ended Saturday, cars in the official procession collided or had to be pushed by officials; cabinet ministers were drenched in the tropical rain; Kasavubu refused for an hour to leave his plane because the wrong flag was flying over an airport and a member of the presidential-suite was kidnapped and beaten up.

* * *

Kasavubu was making his first visit to the west central province accompanied by army strongman Col. Joseph Mobutu.

The tour was intended to restore the prestige and the authority of the central Leopoldville government in the province now ruled by two governments.

In the provincial capital of Luluabourg, 600 policemen staged a noisy demonstration because the cashier who had to pay them for the New Year could not be found.

* * *

In Bakwanga, capital of South Kasai, where "President" Albert Kalonji has proclaimed his "mining state," Kasavubu firmly refused to leave his plane because a guard of honor from the South Kasai Army had been drawn up at the airport.

Kalonji, who was waiting on the tarmac to greet Kasavubu, sent his "prime minister" and his "commander-in-chief" into the plane to negotiate with him—but Kasavubu remained adamant.

* * *

Eventually the guard of honor was removed—but the Kasai flag stayed over the airport building, and Kasavubu stayed in his plane.

After nearly an hour of heated discussion, Kalonji ordered the Congo flag to be removed from the car assigned to Kasavubu and left the airport angrily. Kasavubu and his party were further enraged when the Congo flag removed from the car was trampled under foot by a Kasai officer.

* * *

Following further negotiations, Kasavubu agreed to leave the aircraft—but refused to enter the car, and began to walk 2½ miles to the place where a reception had been arranged.

But later the two leaders kissed and embraced each other in the presence of photographers, anxious officials, and an excited crowd.

DEPARTMENT OF FISHERIES

Sealed tenders for the construction of works for flow regulation of the Big Qualicum River between Horne Lake and the Strait of Georgia on Vancouver Island, B.C., will be received by the undersigned in Ottawa up to noon on March 15, 1961.

The work consists of the construction of the following:

(a) Earthfill dam, concrete spillway weir and overflow channel at Horne Lake
(b) Intakes at the lake
(c) Gate-shaft, gate house and tunnel
(d) Steel tunnel lining, penstocks and valve house
(e) Excavation of a short section of river channel downstream of the valve house
(f) Excavation for relocation of the river channel where required downstream of the Hunt's Creek confluence
(g) Earthfill diversion dam and regulating outlet across Hunt's Creek
(h) Construction of Hunt's Creek flood channel and dike
(i) Concrete flume to carry the Hunt's Creek flood channel past the Esquimalt and Nanaimo railway bridge
(j) Concrete drop structure
(k) Sheet pile and timber logging bridge.

Copies of the documents including instructions to tenderers, form of tender, plans and specifications may be seen on application to the Area director of Fisheries, 1110 West Georgia St., Vancouver, B.C., or may be obtained on loan from him upon deposit of $100.00 in the form of a certified cheque or money order made payable to the Receiver General of Canada. Deposit will be refunded when plans and specifications are returned in good order.

The lowest or any tender will not necessarily be accepted.

G. R. CLARK,
Deputy Minister.

Flying Fish Delay Firm's Own Fault

OTTAWA (CP) — The Canadian customs says the company that plans to operate a hydrofoil vessel between Bellingham and Victoria was told all the requirements of the Customs Act last September.

An official said any delay in establishing the service is the company's own fault.

Murray Mason, manager of the Hydrofoil Development and Operating Corp., said in Bellingham Tuesday the company is awaiting Canadian customs clearance before starting the service of the hydrofoil Flying Fish.

He said as soon as the approval is given the boat will start carrying passengers.

Many Teachers Not Qualified

VANCOUVER (CP) — An official of the British Columbia Teachers' Federation said Wednesday 25 per cent of the secondary school teachers in the province are not fully qualified for their jobs.

"That's how bad the teacher shortage is," said general-secretary Stan Evans."

Vancouver

Ring's Loot $60,000 In Year

VANCOUVER (CP)—Police said yesterday they believe the Vancouver end of a nation-wide theft ring has stolen almost $60,000 worth of goods in less than a year.

They said the thieves apparently stage their raids on business premises on a consignment basis, stealing articles for which there is a ready underworld market in Eastern Canada.

Loot taken in similar raids in Eastern Canada is being disposed of through underground channels in Vancouver and othern western cities, police believe.

Businessmen victims of the theives say they steal only certain articles, leaving others of equal or greater value.

There were two raids on business premises in less than 24 hours here. Sixteen new typewriters, valued at $3,000, were stolen from the Royal Typewriter Company early Wednesday and $5,000 worth of transistor radios and electric shavers were taken from another firm earlier.

Three Killed

Reactor Blast Spreads Death

A-Test Protest

Chairman of the B.C. Power Commission, Dr. H. L. Keenleyside yesterday protested France's renewal of atomic-bomb tests. He sent the cable in his capacity as head of the Canadian National Committee for Control of Radiation Hazards.

IDAHO FALLS, Idaho (AP)—A new-style nuclear reactor blew up Tuesday night, killing three men and touching off a high level of deadly radiation in a building at one of the major U.S. atomic testing stations.

The Atomic Energy Commission quickly sealed off the area and said there was no danger to other parts of the station or Idaho Falls, a city of 34,000 persons 40 miles away.

But the building itself was so "radioactively hot" that only one of the three bodies could be recovered in the first nine hours after the blast.

A southwest wind, however, was blowing any radiation over barren wastelands away from populated areas.

The three victims, identified only as military personnel, were trainees learning to operate the reactor, a prototype of a small nuclear reactor being developed for use by the army in remote areas. They were alone.

Court Test

'Ticket' Stirs Border Fuss

SEATTLE (AP)—An international fuss over a traffic ticket given a Canadian airman near here may provide a court test on whether the NATO status-of-forces gareement covers such minor infractions.

Roy H. Barrett, justice of the peace in North Bend, Wash., was instructed by King County prosecutor Charles O. Carroll Wednesday to proceed with the trial Jan. 19 of J. Gallagher, from the RCAF station in Calgary.

Gallagher was cited recently for driving an RCAF vehicle near Fall City, Wash., on the wrong side of the road and without a special permit for a wide load.

Canadian authorities protested, and Lt.-Col. Fred B. Hammond Jr., staff judge advocate of McChord Air Force Base, asked Washington attorney-gneeral John J. O'Connell to quash the citation under the NATO status-of-forces agreement.

The agreement gives NATO countries the right to prosecute their own nationals for crimes in other member countries.

O'Connell referred the problem to Carroll, in whose county the infraction occurred.

One of Carroll's deputies, Frank L. Sullivan, urged a court test "because of the question's tremendous importance regarding future and possibly more serious violations."

Carroll, accordingly, told Judge Barrett to go ahead with Gallagher's trial and take the "customary steps" if the Canadian airman does not appear.

Five Members of Family All Killed by Cancer

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—From May, 1952, until November 1953, five members of R. C. Williams' family died of cancer.

The victims were his three children, R. C., Jr., 3, Rebecca, 9, James Carl, 14, and two sisters, Joanna, 19, and Mrs. Dorothy Puckett.

The thought he would have cancer was present in Williams' mind, said a brother-in-law, Dr. Ambrose Langa, "but as a member of the family, I always tried not to consider the possibility of a tendency" toward the disease.

Williams underwent surgery for removal of a cancer six months ago.

He died Tuesday night.

Tourism Important

Industry No Factor In City's Future

Economic future of the Victoria area does not appear to be in strong industrial activity, the B.C. Electric marketing division reported this week, but the area has other opportunities for economic expansion which could be equally rewarding.

The division's report, prepared at the request of Mayor Percy Scurrah, listed tourism topmost among the "other possibilities."

FREE SHOP

It suggested investigation of "free shop" areas—free port operations in which tourists can purchase foreign goods duty free after spending 48 hours in Canada.

It also suggested provision of more night-time entertainment and of more beach parks, retention of adequate land for more marinas, increased promotion of convention business, and a greater effort to make tourists feel especially welcome.

The report cast doubt on the area's ability to attract a medical clinic such as the Mayo Clinic, but suggested the area might be attractive to insurance companies for head offices or regional offices.

REDEVELOPMENT

The report favored redevelopment of downtown areas and commented, "the question might well be asked, can Victoria afford not to have an auditorium?"

The report suggested holding some land for industrial use, particularly in outlying areas such as Langford.

Dag Arrives In Congo

LEOPOLDVILLE, The Congo (UPI)—United Nations secretary-general Dag Hammarskjold arrived in the Congo yesterday to be greeted by demonstrators demanding the immediate release of deposed and jailed Premier Patrice Lumumba.

RECORD PASSER

DETROIT (UPI)—Earl Morrall of the Detroit Lions set an NCAA record in 1955 when he averaged 13.8 yards per passing attempt while playing for Michigan State.

More Links Asked For Nanaimo Area

NANAIMO — Nanaimo has been told to urge ferry companies to increase service linking it with Vancouver.

Recreation Minister Earle C. Westwood, speaking at the mayor's banquet following an inaugural council meeting, said department is completing its survey of Newcastle Island and he hopes to present preliminary park development plans to council soon.

He said the Island will attract tourists from all over.

Mr. Westwood also said that opening of the northern part of Vancouver Island as a link with Alaska will attract a great deal of traffic through Nanaimo.

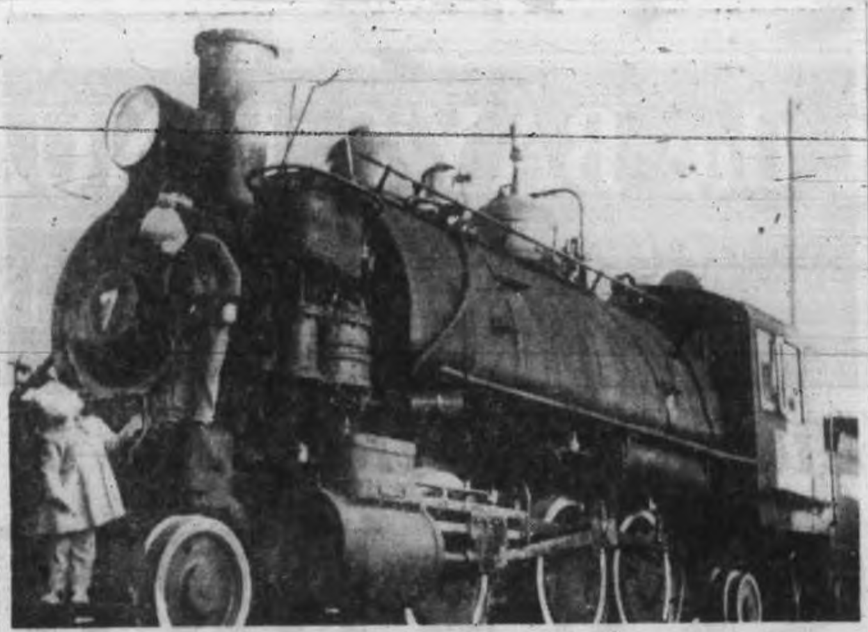
Fears Eased On Gas Line In Cowichan

NORTH COWICHAN — Councillors here breathed easier yesterday after learning from provincial officials that Magna Pipelines Ltd. has not let a contract for construction of a natural gas trunk line through this municipality.

Council hopes to influence the company in its choice of a route through North Cowichan.

TOUR BREAK

Marlene Dietrich will interrupt her concert tour of Europe and North America to co-star in the film Judgment at Nuremberg.



Ladysmith council would like to put this historic steam locomotive on public display if Crown Zellerbach Canada Ltd. will turn it over to the community. Old Number 7 was one of first PGE locomotives and was recently retired from logging run near Ladysmith. — (Colonist photo by Charles Thompson.)

Building Best In Nanaimo

NANAIMO — Construction here last year set a record pace according to municipal building inspector Ben Boers whose department issued permits involving more than $4,000,000. In the rural area construction reached nearly $2,000,000 in value but was off some $750,000 from 1959.

$2,583,000

Nanaimo Budget All-Time High

NANAIMO — City council has approved a $2,583,000 provisional budget that sets an all time record for Nanaimo.

The budget is 12½ per cent over last year.

Under the Municipal Act the provisional budget must be adopted before the middle of January. Taxation would bring in nearly $1,500,000; licences and permits nearly $85,000 and grants and subsidies some $500,000.

Wrangle Enlivens Inaugural Parley

ALBERNI — The inaugural meeting of Alberni council did not pass without a procedural wrangle between Mayor Mabel Anderson and members of her council.

After Aldermen T. S. Barnett, T. S. Hamilton and Roy James were installed by Magistrate W. E. MacLeod, the mayor entered into an argument with Aldermen Barnett and C. M. Blair over her claim that she has the right to defer the adoption of the minutes without reference to council.

Minutes were finally tabled when aldermen insisted on passing a motion to that effect.

John D Shrugs Off U.S. Critics

Cuban Policy Same As Rest of NATO

OTTAWA (UPI)—Prime Minister John Diefenbaker indicated yesterday that Canada was being criticized in the United States for following the same policy toward Cuba as its NATO allies were following.

While declining comment on the severance of U.S. diplomatic relations with the Castro regime, Diefenbaker noted that relations remained intact between Cuba and Britain, France, Belgium and other NATO members.

ALL OTHERS

"We're still in the position of all other nations in NATO," he told newsmen following a cabinet meeting. "They have the same relationship with the U.S. as Canada, and up to the present time their relations with Cuba have been the same as ours."

"If changes become necessary in the relationship of our countries," he added, "the changes will be made."

IN LINE

Diefenbaker's remarks came amid speculation that the United States will try to get Canada to alter its relations with Cuba, bringing them more in line with those of the United States.

Diefenbaker made a similar statement in Saskatoon, Dec. 23 when he was explaining why Canada did not follow the U.S. lead and place an embargo on shipments to Cuba. He said then that Canada was following the same course as the European members of NATO.

U.S. QUARTERS

Criticism in many U.S. quarters of Canada's relations with Cuba were touched off last month by the welcome given a 10-man Cuban trade mission seeking goods in Canada formerly bought from the United States.

Diefenbaker's latest remarks were interpreted as rejection of the U.S. criticism on grounds that similar criticism has not been levelled against other NATO allies.

External Affairs Minister Howard Green, who said last night Canada would be "only too willing" to help patch up relations between the United States and Cuba, declined comment today.

Kennedy Stands Aloof

NEW YORK (UPI)—President-elect John F. Kennedy refused to say whether he agreed with President Eisenhower's decision to break diplomatic relations with Cuba.

"The responsibility rests with the present administration until Jan. 20," Kennedy said.

76 Americans Flee Cuba On Ferryboat

HAVANA (UPI) — Seventy-six Americans, the bulk of the U.S. embassy staff here, left Cuba aboard a ferryboat for West Palm Beach, Fla.

Red Radio Strikes Out

Hands Off U.S. Base Ike Warns Cubans

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Eisenhower yesterday followed up the diplomatic break with Cuba by warning the Castro regime to keep hands off the $70,000,000 U.S. naval base at Guantanamo Bay.

This country's determination to keep the base, called the "Pearl Harbor of the Caribbean," was expressed in a terse White House statement:

"The termination of our diplomatic and consular relations with Cuba has no effect on the status of our naval station at Guantanamo. The treaty relations under which we maintain the naval station may not be arrogated without the consent of the United States."

Guantanamo, with its 10,000 sailors, marines, civilian workers and dependents, appeared a likely target if Cuban Premier Fidel Castro wanted to stir up more trouble.

Bitter Charges Traded In Hectic UN Session

UNITED NATIONS (AP)—Demonstrators for and against Cuban Prime Minister Fidel Castro clashed outside UN headquarters Wednesday as the United States and Cuba traded bitter charges in the security council.

At least one man was hurt and several others were spattered with eggs and tomatoes.

The United States told the 11-nation council Castro was turning Cuba into a springboard for Communist subversion of the Western hemisphere. Cuba charged the United States was about to attack her.

Chile and Ecuador introduced a resolution that would have the council:

1. Recommend that Cuba and the U.S. try to resolve their differences.

2. Urge UN members not to take any action.

28,000 Go Back To School Today

It's back to school today for more than 28,000 youngsters in 79 schools within 20 miles of Victoria. There will be a full day of instruction in all grades, after the two-week Christmas vacation. Secondary school students can look forward to receiving report cards on Christmas examinations in the next few days.

Survivor Relaxes—At Last

Youth Escapes Crushing, Fire

Soft Mud Lifesaver

Pinned by a tractor that slipped on a ramp and rolled over on him, 18-year-old Albert Smith of 4450 Tyndall Avenue was saved from death yesterday by six inches of soft mud.

Then he lived through 20 fear-filled minutes before rescue, expecting the heavy machine to become a blazing pyre.

ANY MINUTE

"It scared hell out of me," he said last night. "I was afraid it was going to catch fire any minute."

"It was a narrow escape."

He came through the ordeal with a broken wrist, extensive bruises and back burns from the gasoline that leaked from the tractor's fuel tank.

CONDITION GOOD

Royal Jubilee Hospital officials listed his condition as good.

Smith was unloading a caterpillar tractor from a truck on the Central Saanich farm of G. A. Vantreight about 9.45 a.m. when the tractor slipped off the loading ramp and pinned him underneath.

His legs were held by the tractor seat and track shield and the rest of his body lay beneath the seat with about six inches of clearance.

SAVED LIFE

"Only that space and the six inches of soft mud beneath saved his life," said Central Saanich police.

Members of the Central Saanich volunteer fire department were called and took as much of the weight as they could until a second tractor, owned by Vantreight's neighbor Jack Looy, could pull the overturned "cat" from Smith's body.

HELD AWAY

During most of the 20 minutes it took, another volunteer held the vehicle's sparking battery away from the gasoline flowing from the tank.

Once the overturned tractor was pulled free, firemen rushed young Smith to hospital.

Canada Combats Arctic Sub Fear

OTTAWA (CP) — The Defence Research Board said Wednesday it is preparing to send expeditions to the Arctic this year for research into detection of submarines operating under the ice.

Mounting of these expeditions was the most significant activity in 1960 at the Pacific Naval Laboratory at Esquimalt, the board said in a review of its work last year.

RADAR BLOW

Ability of submarines to operate under ice, demonstrated dramatically by U.S. nuclear subs, concerns the defence department, which fears hostile submarines could knock out Arctic radar lines or bombard central North America from Hudson Bay.

Informed sources said object of the expeditions is to determine if shore bases or underwater detection devices anchored to cables can be installed to listen for undersea craft in the straits dividing Canada's Arctic islands.

SONAR USE

The expeditions will explore water conditions under the ice to determine if Sonar can be used as it is in the open Atlantic and Pacific.

Freighter In Distress

MANILA (AP)—The American freighter Portland Trader was reported in distress pounding against a reef in the Southern Philippines Sulu Sea.

TAX ASSESSMENTS STARTLE OAK BAY

Irate Property Owners Bombard Municipal Hall

"Hundreds" of irate Oak Bay property owners bombarded municipal officials yesterday with complaints about increased land assessments for 1961.

Inequalities in re-assessment were charged by some landowners while others protested increases of as much as 115 per cent.

OTHERS HOME-FREE

Other Greater Victoria municipalities could afford to relax. They went through their re-assessment agonies in previous years.

One Oak Bay resident, retired and living in a three-roomed cottage, said last night his assessment for land only was raised to $2,800 from $1,200.

NEVER STOPPED

Phone calls and personal visits to the municipal hall "never stopped all day," clerk E. H. Hart said last night. Properties most affected are those in older parts of Oak Bay.

Situation was complicated as both the assessor, Griffith Jones, and his assistant, Collin Wyatt, were absent on sick leave.

Staff of the tax office handled most complaints with some being referred to Mr. Hart.

REEVE BUSY

Reeve George Murdoch also reported last night he had received "a lot of complaints" during the day. Assessment notices were received by property owners Tuesday.

Reeve Murdoch announced Tuesday night that assessments had been increased by some $2,000,000 over-all.

TOO LOW

Provincial assessment commissioner K. E. B. Wildman said last night his department had advised Oak Bay assessors that assessments on land were low in some of the older districts of Oak Bay.

The amount of increase in assessments — $2,000,000 — was set by the assessors, he said.

A court of revision will be appointed soon by the provincial government to hear appeals against assessments in all Greater Victoria municipalities.

SEATO Shuns Laos Issue

BANGKOK, Thailand (Reuters)—The Southeast Asia Treaty Organization maintained a cautious stand in a conference here Wednesday on the menacing civil war in neighboring Laos.

(See also Page 2).

At the same time, a letter from Laos' ousted neutralist premier, Prince Souvanna Phouma, published in Moscow, called for an international conference to end strife in his country. The letter appeared in the Soviet government newspaper Izvestia. Souvanna is in Cambodia.

INVASION PROOF

Secretary-General Pote Sarasin of SEATO said here that SEATO could not take action in Laos unless it had proof of a Communist invasion of Laos by ground forces.

Sarasin said there were no doubts that Russian planes based in Communist North Viet Nam were supplying rebels in northern and Central Laos.

SUPPORT U.S.

In London, a foreign office spokesman said Britain could support United States statements that Russian planes were supplying left-wing Laotian rebels.

Observers saw SEATOs cautious approach as a concession to Britain and France, which both have called for conciliation among the warring factions by an international truce commission.

OTTAWA (CP)—The Canadian government has received no request from the Laotian government for the resumption of the supervisory truce commission, Prime Minister Diefenbaker said yesterday.

VIENTIANE, Laos (UPI)—The government announced yesterday it had captured a vital road junction in central Laos from the communists. At the same time it indicated a possible weakening of its military position by hinting that Britain and Russia should act to restore peace in Laos.

Belgium Still Boiling

BRUSSELS (UPI) — Police broke up a march on Parliament by 300 demonstrators Wednesday while Socialist deputies demanded the resignation of Premier Gaston Eyskens.

The clash between police and demonstrators erupted at the end of a march by 10,000 strikers through the centre of Brussels.

UPROARIOUS

The uproarious session took place behind the protection of hundreds of paratroopers and gendarmes who brought up tanks, armored cars and trucks and erected barbed wire barricades in fear of the march.

The session was marked by demands for new elections, fierce personal attacks on the premier and Socialist criticism of the government for spending too much money on royal palaces.

SECOND DAY

It was the second day of debate on the government's explosive austerity bill. Eyskens was silent; the debate resumes today.

At least 60 rioters were arrested to bring the total jailed since the beginning of the crisis to more than 200. The government claimed a gradual drift back to work but Socialists claimed the strike front by 500,000 to 600,000 workers remained solid.

Rescuers Rescued —No Matter What

AUCKLAND, N.Z. (CP)—When the stroller in which they were taking their baby brother for an outing ran down a bank into three feet of water, the eight-year-old twin sons of a New Zealand farmer knew what to do. They had learned all about it as Wolf Cubs.

Wet and woebegone, they returned home and explained to their mother: "We tried to give him artificial respiration, mum. But he kept getting up and walking away."

Tree Blaze Kills Three

KINGSTON, Ont. (CP) — Two small children and their mother died Wednesday night as a result of a fire which started when a spark ignited a Christmas tree in their two-storey frame home.

Health Insurance in Canada Liberals' Pledge

OTTAWA (UPI)—The Liberal party last night pledged to introduce federal health insurance in Canada.

The pledge was made in an address by opposition leader Lester B. Pearson and former Liberal associate defence minister Paul Hellyer.

In outlining future party intentions Hellyer (L-Trinity) accused Prime Minister John Diefenbaker of pulling "a fast trick on us by announcing a royal commission" on health insurance.

"But he didn't really pull the wool over the eyes of any one," Hellyer added. "Everyone knows that the Liberal party—the party which introduced every social security measure we have federally—will be the party that will introduce health insurance too."

Pearson, who introduced Hellyer as the chairman of the Liberal party's massive "rally" to be held here next week, unofficially started the debate on Finance Minister Donald Fleming's "baby budget" brought down in the House of Commons just before Christmas.

353 Deepwater Ships

1960 Best Year For City's Port

Government-Aided Work Will Give 4,000 Man-Days

Victoria city's $190,000 government-aided winter work program will provide about 4,000 man-days of employment this season, City Engineer James Garnett said yesterday.

Among projects are installation of local-improvement curbs, gutters and sidewalks, $84,000; curb construction for widening of Quadra between Hillside and Tolmie, $40,000; widening of Fort near the Junction, $10,000; cement-lining of water mains, $25,000, and several smaller jobs.

By IAN STREET

The port of Victoria chalked up a record year in 1960 with ships berthing at Ogden Point docks at the rate of almost one a day throughout the year.

The total of 353 deepwater vessels entering the port last year tops the previous best postwar figure of 344 in 1953, and there is an expectation that the coming year will be even better for port business.

GRAIN SHIPMENTS

Grain shipments, one of the major cargoes shipped from here, are running about 1,500,000 bushels ahead of last year at this time, C. C. Head, manager of Victoria Grain Elevator Ltd., said yesterday.

Meanwhile, shipments of lumber and plywood which make up the bulk of Victoria's export business are holding their own, with what one spokesman for a big producer described as "quite a line-up of ships" waiting to load forest products at Ogden Point.

GROSS TONNAGE

Gross tonnage of ships using the port last year smashed all previous records. It totalled for the 353 vessels 2,728,697 tons. The previous record year, 1953, tallied 344 ships with a total gross tonnage of 2,489,966.

Capt. G. Ronald Newell, harbormaster, said 183 ships, gross tonnage 1,439,234, entered the port of Victoria in the first six months of last year. There was a decline to 170 vessels with gross tonnage of 1,289,463 in the second half of 1960. Biggest month of the year for shipping was April with 41 ships using this port.

GRAIN EXPORTS

Grain exports are expected to be heavy from now until March with a large bulk carrier due this weekend. Year-end totals for grain exports are tallied after July 31 and lumber and plywood shipments haven't yet been completely recorded for 1960.

Flu Going Around

Measles Onslaught Still Harasses City

Measles onslaught in the Greater Victoria area shows no signs yet of slackening, medical health officer Dr. Elizabeth Mahaffy said yesterday.

In the week ended Jan. 3, Dr. Mahaffy said, 85 cases were reported in the Saanich and South Vancouver Island health district and 28 in the Victoria - Esquimalt district, "and we know there are a lot more cases than that."

CHEERFUL SIDE

On the cheerful side, Dr. Mahaffy said she hadn't heard much since Christmas of a throat, chest and stomach ailment caused by an unidentified virus which was prevalent before the holiday.

But, she said there is some ordinary 'flu going around—"We've had a few cases reported."

Dominion

Hotel Room Fire Laid To Cigaret

Fire which broke out shortly before 2 a.m. yesterday in a room at the Dominion Hotel, 759 Yates, was noticed by the occupant of a neighboring room and extinguished by firemen with hand equipment before much damage was done.

The room had been occupied for about a month by H. Allan of Calgary, and it is thought a cigaret had been left burning on a table, setting fire to drapes and curtains, and damaging a wall before being extinguished.

Bottle Drive

A bottle drive conducted by First Juan de Fuca Scouts and Cubs will be held Saturday from 9.30 a.m. to noon in the Langford district.

B.C. Labor Group To Present Brief

The B.C. Federation of Labor will present its annual brief to the provincial cabinet this morning. The brief will contain major recommendations to aid the growing ranks of unemployed in B.C.

Gorge View Society

$33,583 Contract Let For Old Peoples' Home

Contract for construction of a $33,583 six-suite building for the Gorge View Society senior citizens housing development was awarded last night to Herb Bate Construction Ltd.

The building will provide accommodation for four single people and two married couples.

The building is the second to be erected on the 5½-acre property on Harriet Road. Completion is expected April 30.

Construction of the buildings is sponsored by Gorge View Cottage Society of the United Church of Canada.

'Needy' Hire Cab To Get Welfare Cheque

PORT ALBERNI — Mayor Loran Jordon thinks it's time welfare officials started taking a closer look at the financial straits of recipients because "quite a number hire taxis to pick up their cheques."

"I don't think that is what social welfare was set up for in the first place," he told this city's first 1961 council meeting. He said Port Alberni's social service cost during 1960 soared $32,000 over estimates.

Backed by Reeves

Two New Ferries Urged by Mayor

Mayor Percy Scurrah yesterday suggested the provincial government should order two new ferries instead of one, to cope with tourist traffic generated by the Century 21 Exposition and Victoria's centenary in 1962.

"The government ferries have been a tremendous success and from what I can gather there are numerous times when they can't handle present traffic," he said.

"I'm wondering if the time hasn't arrived to request the government to build two new ferries instead of one, because it has been proven that if you have transportation you create a tremendous amount of business, and while I don't have figures on the traffic, I suspect that there will be a need for two extra boats."

The reeves of Saanich and Esquimalt supported Mayor Scurrah's suggestion.

INCREASED BUSINESS

"I think the indications of an increase in the amount of business are such that investigations should be made," Reeve George Chatterton said. "With the city's centennial and the Century 21 world's fair in Seattle in 1962 a fourth ferry could be necessary."

Reeve A. C. Wurtele said he felt the government ferry system was operating on a "shoestring" with only two ferries.

WELL PATRONIZED

"If anything happened to one of those ferries the whole schedule would collapse," he said. "It is apparent the service is well patronized and they could have three ferries on the run and one held for a spare.

"The fourth one could be put on the run for the busy tourist season."

Reeve George Murdoch of Oak Bay declined to comment on the suggestion.

Plan Discussed

Health Merger Closer

Greater Victoria municipalities are expected to consider early this year the unification, to some degree, of the public health units now serving the southern end of Vancouver Island.

A proposal along this line was discussed in closed session last week by city council and Deputy Health Minister Dr. G. F. Amyot.

It apparently would involve little if any loss of local autonomy and provide more service at the same or less cost.

The southern end of the Island is served by three units. They are the Victoria-Esquimalt health unit, with Victoria, Esquimalt and the Greater Victoria school board as members; the Saanich and South Vancouver Island health unit, serving Saanich municipality, the rest of the Saanich peninsula and other areas south of the Malahat, and the Oak Bay, health department.

Current proposal is believed to be that an over-all metropolitan board be set up to co-ordinate the services, so that health measures throughout the area would be uniform and resources of all three districts could be used in emergency or for common convenience.

Busy Year Seen For Port Alberni

PORT ALBERNI — A busy year for council and a progressive year for the city were predicted by Mayor Loran Jordon in a brief address at Port Alberni council's inaugural 1961 meeting.

The mayor spoke following the ceremony in which Aldermen William Goddard, Bob Dalton and George Folkard took the oath of office administered by Judge L. Arnold Hanna.

Mayor Jordon said that a bylaw for approximately $800,000 would be placed before the electorate in late spring or early summer to raise funds for expansion of the water system.

He spoke of the need for installation of permanent steel-mounted street signs and recommended planning this year of site and buildings for a new works yard.

The mayor expressed concern with the outcome of the city's policy in winter works programs.

"I am somewhat disappointed in the overall picture," he said. "I am worried that this scheme will eventually become a municipal baby as many other senior government schemes have become in the past.

"This winter we took on 35 men for a period of 40 working days to help the unemployment situation, but at the same time industry was laying off at least three times that number. I would suggest more co-operation will be necessary to make this plan work.

"We are not as yet in a position to forecast whether or not our mill rate will stay as it is, but we are hoping to maintain the present rate. However, if school and social services costs increase the taxes must of necessity rise.

Our social service cost in the past year was up over $32,000 over estimates."

CAMPBELL RIVER—A fireman was rushed to hospital with a dislocated shoulder late Tuesday when he was hurled from a speeding fire engine as it hurtled from the fire hall.

Injured was Douglas Robinson, usually the driver of the truck.

The accident happened as the department responded to one of two chimney fires which broke out during a strong southeast gale.

* * *

NANAIMO — To cope with one of this city's most important problems Mayor Pete Maffeo has set up a special parking and traffic control committee to be headed by veteran alderman Douglas Greer.

Other committee chairmen announced by the mayor yesterday are Ald. Haig Burns, finance, bargaining and legislation; Ald. George Bryce, waterworks and sewers; Ald. John Cook, streets and storm drains; Ald. William McGregor, fire, police and lighting; Ald. Jack Parker, winter works and garbage.

* * *

DUNCAN — Something new for Cowichan district churches will be held next week during a five-day series of inter-church services.

Ministers of churches where services are to be held will conduct the worship but the sermon will be given by a minister from another church.

* * *

DUNCAN — City council will discuss its 1961 provisional budget at a meeting next Monday.

At an earlier meeting it was "tabled for further consideration."

The budget totals $448, 920, an increase of $29,700 over last year.

* * *

UCLUELET — Army, Navy and Air Force Veterans here elected Kenneth Walden as president for 1961. Other officers of the association are Alex Atamanchuk, vice-president; Joseph Kruk, treasurer; Ray Vose, secretary.

* * *

NANAIMO — This city and some of its telephone operators have star rolls in a color movie produced by the B.C. Telephone Company to explain direct distance dialling.

It is to be made available to groups here, at Chemainus, Ladysmith, Gabriola, Bowser, Parksville and Qualicum in which districts "DDD" starts on Jan. 23.

* * *

QUALICUM BEACH — A total of 28 needy families received food hampers and children's toys for Christmas as a result of the efforts of service clubs, high school students, Legion members, church guilds and other local organizations.

Some $360 was raised with which to purchase food for Christmas hampers, and toys were sorted and repaired for 83 youngsters.

* * *

NORTH COWICHAN — Council has rejected a bid from J. B. McMorran and M. D. Moscovich, both of Crofton, asking the municipality to sell 19 acres of land just south of Smith Bay.

It was turned down because the area is tentatively earmarked for future development as a recreation area.

* * *

DUNCAN — An accident south of here on the highway yesterday at Koksilah Bridge was blamed on heavy rain when one car ran into the rear of another.

Police said a car driven by Fred Vaux, Herd Road, was in collision with one driven by Miss Janet Foster of Cowichan Bay. Damage was estimated at $200.

* * *

COOMBS — A newly-organized 4-H Club here has elected its inaugural slate of officers naming Sonia Stevens first president of the dairy calf division, Jim Mant president of the beef group and Beverley Renolfson president of the community section.

PORT ALBERNI — Ald. George Folkard, returning to office after seven years, was made chairman of the city's works committee when standing committee appointments were made by Mayor Loran Jordon Tuesday evening.

He succeeds ex-alderman Jack Perry as head of the key committee.

There were few changes in personnel of the various committees. Ald. F. G. Weaver will continue to head the finance group, Ald. J. R. Dalton, fire, water and light.

Parks and recreation committee will be headed by Ald. D. W. Mallory; police and traffic, by Ald. E. E. Bowen.

A resolution of council appointed ex-alderman Norman Odgers as city representative on West Coast General Hospital board and Ald. Dalton as Union Library representative.

Ald. Goddard will again be the health and social welfare representative on council.

* * *

PORT ALBERNI — James D. Stuart, manager of Stone Bros. Ltd., is the new president of Port Alberni and District Chamber of Commerce.

The 1961 slate of officers was elected Tuesday at the first luncheon meeting of the year.

Mr. Stuart succeeds Fred Stansfield as head of the chamber.

Others on the 1961 executive are Gordon Jenks, first vice-president; William Beckingham, second vice-president; Cliff Walker, secretary; Felix Nicholson, treasurer; Ted Stroyan, Mrs. Edna Souther, Fred Duncan, Art Toms, Robbie MacFie, Les Forward, Dr. R. W. Garner and W. E. Russell, directors.

* * *

PORT ALBERNI — Fire Chief William Venables was honored by fellow members of Port Alberni volunteer fire department and by city council at the city's 1961 inaugural banquet Tuesday night.

Mayor Loran Jordon commended the chief for his 26 years of service with the department, and Alderman Bob Dalton made presentations to Chief Venables and Mrs. Venables on behalf of the firemen.

Fireman Joe Schraefel led fellow fire fighters in a cheer for their chief.

* * *

NORTH COWICHAN — Municipal and city councils have voted in favor of continuing meetings on the same days as last year.

Duncan will meet at 7.00 p.m. on the second Monday of each month. In the past an extra meeting has been called during most months.

North Cowichan municipality meetings will be held on the first and third Wednesdays starting at 2 p.m.

* * *

ALBERNI — Nelson Joseph was sentenced to six months definite and three months indefinite in Oakalla when he pleaded guilty in Alberni court Tuesday morning to a charge of assaulting a police officer.

World's Hungry Still Wait For Taste of B.C. Food

Peter Bruton's Capital Notebook

"JUST A GESTURE:" Remember last spring when Premier Bennett accused Ottawa of not doing enough for the millions of refugees and hungry people in the world?

That was the time he described Ottawa's decision to allow 100 tubercular refugees into Canada as "just a gesture." And he grandiosely appointed the Premier's Committee for World Relief under the chairmanship of Health Minister Eric Martin.

Then there was the fund to be used to buy B.C. foods for underprivileged regions.

Remember how the provincial cabinet gave an outright grant of $50,000 to the fund and then announced that "it would match, dollar for dollar, voluntary contributions up to another $475,000?

There hasn't been very much publicity given to the Premier's Committee for World Relief since then but a little checking unearths this fact: The $50,000 "outright grant" has not been touched and still remains in a B.C. government account. And nobody sent in any contributions to be matched dollar for dollar.

Maybe it was all "just a gesture."

HARD ON BLOOD PRESSURE: A medal for tolerance is surely due one Greater Victoria store-owner who has just undergone a truly shattering experience.

One of his employees was driving around a corner and did not quite make it. He crashed into boss's car which in turn was sent flying through the store's large plate glass window.

The tolerance angle is the fact that the employee was not fired.

The quality of mercy is not strained—well, perhaps just a little bit.

DISAPPEARANCE ACT: Resident who decided to celebrate the birth of the New Year against his wife's wishes must have thought he was seeing things— or rather the lack of things—when he returned home in the wee hours.

Every stick of furniture except a camp stretcher, a chair, a plate, a knife and a fork were gone, as was the wife.

SORRY, WRONG YEAR: The "what's-on-in-town" board displayed in the lobby of the Strathcona Hotel is due for a little revising.

One of the attractions advertised is the appearance of Vancouver songstress Eleanor Collins at "The Scene," the Wharf Street jazz hangout. That billing should have been taken down after the weekend of Nov. 4.

NEW YEAR'S ROUNDS: A surprise visit to the old soldiers in Veterans Hospital here was paid yesterday by Lieutenant-Governor George R. Pearkes, VC.

"I knew you boys couldn't get up to see me so I thought I'd just pop down and visit you," he confided to the former servicemen, many of whom served under the general in the past.

The visit lasted for more than an hour.

New Mariner Has Hull in Tow

Island Tug's Latest Plowing Home

The latest addition to Island Tug and Barge Ltd's growing fleet of deepsea and coastal tugboats is scheduled to arrive here about Jan. 23.

Capt. Roy Blake, 1937 Newton, who flew to New York to take command of the new Island Mariner radioed yesterday his position was some 500 miles north of Balboa, port at the Pacific end of the Panama Canal.

The message to ITB headquarters here said the tug was making a steady 10 knots towing the hull of another 100-foot long tug which will be completed in Victoria and added to the ITB fleet at a later date. The Jan. 23 arrival date depends on continuing good weather.

The new tug revives the name of a veteran steam tug recently sold for scrap at the age of 53.

The latest acquisition to the ITB fleet will be used in coastal towing. She was built in England and picked up the hull in New York.

Complicated Complaints

NORTH COWICHAN — What has been called one of the most complicated complaints by ratepayers in North Cowichan's history is due to be investigated by works committee chairman Coun. Tony Staples.

He is to bring back to council a recommendation in the case of four Chemainus residents, on Alder and Laurel Streets, who have refused to pay bills totalling $30 for cleaning out water lines.

After complaints, states a letter from the four, the municipality admitted that loss of water pressure at their homes was due to clogged lines.

Reeve Donald Morton said that because remarks of one of the property owners were so offensive, municipal employees were not allowed on the properties and a private plumbing firm was asked by the municipality to clear the lines.

The property owners state that they don't feel they should pay the $5 bill each received from the municipality for the work done by the company.

Reeve Morton said there were "various complicated aspects" for the councillors to consider, and that in his opinion council could not act without a public works committee recommendation.

Biggest Talent Hunt Planned from Alberni

PORT ALBERNI — Shows planned by the local BPO Elks Lodge will constitute the biggest talent hunt ever held on Vancouver Island, a spokesman for the lodge said here this week.

Intention of the sponsoring group is to institute a search for talent in the Twin Cities and district. The first of four monthly shows will be held in Alberni District High School auditorium late in January. Winners of each show will appear in semi-finals to be held in April and winners of the finals will be selected at the Elks Victoria Day show. They will go to Vancouver early in the summer to appear on a television show.

The Elks have announced that prizes will be given to all entrants.

Purpose of the talent shows is to give local artists the opportunity of displaying talents to the public, to give teachers of dancing, singing, music, acrobatics a chance of having their students appear before an audience.

The Elks ask that all organizations interested in furthering careers of talented young people get in touch with Max Solterman, chairman of the talent show committee. He can be reached by phoning his home or the Elks' Home.

Faults in Education Blamed on Public

DUNCAN—Rev. Brian Page said at a council meeting here that if there is anything wrong with the education system it is the public's fault.

"We ought to make up our minds what we want education to do," he said. "What the public works for it gets. We get what we deserve."

He added teachers are "really important. It behooves us all to enhance the teaching profession."

Two Magistrates Share Nanaimo Inaugural Rite

NANAIMO — Two magistrates shared the top level of municipal government in Nanaimo yesterday as Chief Magistrate Mayor Pete Maffeo welcomed Magistrate Lionel Beevor Potts to swear in council members.

The police magistrate, who has just returned to duty after an operation on his arm, heard oaths of office from re-elected Aldermen George Bryce, Douglas Greer and Jack Parker.

He congratulated each upon re-election to office and thanked the mayor for a reference to his father, who previously had sworn in many of Nanaimo's municipal officials.

Mr. Beevor Potts had previously attended the swearing in ceremony of school trustees.

Mayor Maffeo played host to a banquet following the city council meeting at which heads of most municipal boards and commissions were in attendance, as well as Recreation Minister Earle C. Westwood.

No Blame to Driver In Port Alberni Death

PORT ALBERNI — No blame was attached to the driver by a coroner's jury at an inquest into the death of Arthur Franklin Hall, 79, who died in West Coast General Hospital Dec. 29, the day after he had been struck by a car while crossing Tenth Avenue North.

The jury, headed by William Krawetz, found that the elderly veteran of the First World War came to his death due to multiple injuries and shock resulting after being struck by a motor vehicle operated by Stanley B. Parkin.

Funeral was held yesterday under auspices of Branch [illegible] Canadian Legion.

Mr. Hall came to Port Alberni in 1912 and was the first man to leave the city in 1914 as a volunteer after the outbreak of war.

Gaglardi Parley Satisfactory

NORTH COWICHAN — A meeting with Highways Minister P. A. Gaglardi yesterday on suggested road improvements was termed "quite satisfactory," by Reeve Donald Morton last night.

The reeve said he could not elaborate until a report was given to council.

A letter has to be sent to the minister outlining the municipality's plans, which in turn must be approved by the government.

John D Shrugs Off U.S. Critics

Cuban Policy Same As Rest of NATO

OTTAWA (UPI)—Prime Minister John Diefenbaker indicated yesterday that Canada was being criticized in the United States for following the same policy toward Cuba as its NATO allies were following.

While declining comment on the severance of U.S. diplomatic relations with the Castro regime, Diefenbaker noted that relations remained intact between Cuba and Britain, France, Belgium and other NATO members.

ALL OTHERS

"We're still in the position of all other nations in NATO," he told newsmen following a cabinet meeting. "They have the same relationship with the U.S. as Canada, and up to the present time their relations with Cuba have been the same as ours.

"If changes become necessary in the relationship of our countries," he added, "the changes will be made."

IN LINE

Diefenbaker's remarks came amid speculation that the United States will try to get Canada to alter its relations with Cuba, bringing them more in line with those of the United States.

Diefenbaker made a similar statement in Saskatoon Dec. 25 when he was explaining why Canada did not follow the U.S. lead and place an embargo on shipments to Cuba. He said then that Canada was following the same course as the European members of NATO.

U.S. QUARTERS

Criticism in many U.S. quarters of Canada's relations with Cuba was touched off last month by the welcome given a 10-man Cuban trade mission seeking goods in Canada formerly bought from the United States.

Diefenbaker's latest remarks were interpreted as rejection of the U.S. criticism on grounds that similar criticism has not been levelled against other NATO allies.

External Affairs Minister Howard Green, who said last night Canada would be "only too willing" to help patch up relations between the United States and Cuba, declined comment.

Kennedy Stands Aloof

NEW YORK (UPI)—President-elect John F. Kennedy refused to say whether he agreed with President Eisenhower's decision to break diplomatic relations with Cuba.

"The responsibility rests with the present administration until Jan. 20," Kennedy said.

76 Americans Flee Cuba On Ferryboat

Hands Off U.S. Base Ike Warns Cubans

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Eisenhower yesterday followed up the diplomatic break with Cuba by warning the Castro regime to keep hands off the $70,000,000 U.S. naval base at Guantanamo Bay.

This country's determination to keep the base, called the "Pearl Harbor of the Caribbean," was expressed in a terse White House statement:

"The termination of our diplomatic and consular relations with Cuba has no effect on the status of our naval station at Guantanamo. The treaty relations under which we maintain the naval station may not be arrogated without the consent of the United States."

Guantanamo, with its 10,000 sailors, marines, civilian workers and dependents, appeared a likely target if Cuban Premier Fidel Castro wanted to stir up more trouble.

Bitter Charges Traded In Hectic UN Session

UNITED NATIONS (AP)—Demonstrators for and against Cuban Prime Minister Fidel Castro clashed outside UN headquarters Wednesday as the United States and Cuba traded bitter charges in the security council.

At least one man was hurt and several others were spattered with eggs and tomatoes.

The United States told the 11-nation council Castro was turning Cuba into a springboard for Communist subversion of the Western hemisphere. Cuba charged the United States was about to attack her.

Chile and Ecuador introduced a resolution that would have the council:

1. Recommend that Cuba and the U.S. try to resolve their differences.
2. Urge UN members not to take any action.

Soft Mud Lifesaver

Pinned by a tractor that slipped on a ramp and rolled over on him, 18-year-old Albert Smith of 4450 Tyndall Avenue was saved from death yesterday by six inches of soft mud.

Then he lived through 20 fear-filled minutes before rescue, expecting the heavy machine to become a blazing pyre.

ANY MINUTE

"It scared hell out of me," he said last night. "I was afraid it was going to catch fire any minute."

"It was a narrow escape."

He came through the ordeal with a broken wrist, extensive bruises and back burns from the gasoline that leaked from the tractor's fuel tank.

CONDITION GOOD

Royal Jubilee Hospital officials listed his condition as good.

Smith was unloading a caterpillar tractor from a truck on the Central Saanich farm of G. A. Vantreight about 9.45 a.m. when the tractor slipped off the loading ramp and pinned him underneath.

His legs were held by the tractor seat and track shield and the rest of his body lay beneath the seat with about six inches of clearance.

SAVED LIFE

"Only that space and the six inches of soft mud beneath saved his life," said Central Saanich police.

Members of the Central Saanich volunteer fire department were called and took as much of the weight as they could until a second tractor, owned by Vantreight's neighbor Jack Looy, could pull the overturned "cat" from Smith's body.

HELD AWAY

During most of the 20 minutes it took, another volunteer held the vehicle's sparking battery away from the gasoline flowing from the tank.

Once the overturned tractor was pulled free, firemen rushed young Smith to hospital.

Canada Combats Arctic Sub Fear

OTTAWA (CP) — The Defence Research Board said Wednesday it is preparing to send expeditions to the Arctic this year for research into detection of submarines operating under the ice.

Mounting of these expeditions was the most significant activity in 1960 at the Pacific Naval Laboratory at Esquimalt, the board said in a review of its work last year.

RADAR BLOW

Ability of submarines to operate under ice, demonstrated dramatically by U.S. nuclear subs, concerns the defence department, which fears hostile submarines could knock out Arctic radar lines or bombard central North America from Hudson Bay.

Informed sources said object of the expeditions is to determine if shore bases or underwater detection devices anchored to cables can be installed to listen for undersea craft in the straits dividing Canada's Arctic islands.

SONAR USE

The expeditions will explore water conditions under the ice to determine if Sonar can be used as it is in the open Atlantic and Pacific.

Freighter In Distress

MANILA (AP)—The American freighter Portland Trader was reported in distress pounding against a reef in the Southern Philippines' Sulu Sea.

Protests Bombard Oak Bay Officials

"Hundreds" of irate Oak Bay property owners bombarded municipal officials yesterday with complaints about increased land assessments for 1961.

Inequalities in re-assessment were charged by some landowners while others protested increases of as much as 115 per cent.

Other Greater Victoria municipalities could afford to relax. They went through their re-assessment agonies in previous years.

One Oak Bay resident, retired and living in a three-roomed cottage, said last night his assessment for land only was raised to $2,800 from $1,200.

NEVER STOPPED

Phone calls and personal visits to the municipal hall "never stopped all day," clerk E. H. Hart said last night. Properties most affected are those in older parts of Oak Bay.

Situation was complicated as both the assessor, Griffith Jones, and his assistant, Collin Wyatt, were absent on sick leave.

Staff of the tax office handled most complaints with some being referred to Mr. Hart.

REEVE BUSY

Reeve George Murdoch also reported last night he had received "a lot of complaints" during the day. Assessment notices were received by property owners Tuesday.

Reeve Murdoch announced Tuesday night that assessments had been increased by some $2,000,000 over-all.

TOO LOW

Provincial assessment commissioner K. E. B. Wildman said last night his department had advised Oak Bay assessors that assessments on land were low in some of the older districts of Oak Bay.

The amount of increase in assessments — $2,000,000 — was set by the assessors, he said.

A court of revision will be appointed soon by the provincial government to hear appeals against assessments in all Greater Victoria municipalities.

SEATO Shuns Laos Issue

BANGKOK, Thailand (Reuters)—The Southeast Asia Treaty Organization maintained a cautious stand in a conference here Wednesday on the menacing civil war in neighboring Laos.

At the same time, a letter from Laos' ousted neutralist premier, Prince Souvanna Phouma, published in Moscow, called for an international conference to end strife in his country. The letter appeared in the Soviet government newspaper Izvestia. Souvanna is in Cambodia.

INVASION PROOF

Secretary-General Pote Sarasin of SEATO said here that SEATO could not take action in Laos unless it had proof of a Communist invasion of Laos by ground forces.

Sarasin said there were no doubts that Russian planes based in Communist North Viet Nam were supplying rebels in northern and Central Laos.

SUPPORT U.S.

In London, a foreign office spokesman said Britain could support United States statements that Russian planes were supplying left-wing Laotian rebels.

Observers saw SEATO's cautious approach as a concession to Britain and France, which both have called for conciliation among the warring factions by an international truce commission.

OTTAWA (CP)—The Canadian government has received no request from the Laotian government for the resumption of the supervisory truce commission, Prime Minister Diefenbaker said yesterday.

VIENTIANE, Laos (UPI)—The government announced yesterday it had captured a vital road junction in central Laos from the Communists. At the same time it indicated a possible weakening of its military position by hinting that Britain and Russia should act to restore peace in Laos.

Belgium Still Boiling

BRUSSELS (UPI) — Police broke up a march on Parliament by 300 demonstrators Wednesday while Socialist deputies demanded the resignation of Premier Gaston Eyskens.

The clash between police and demonstrators erupted at the end of a march by 10,000 strikers through the centre of Brussels.

UPROARIOUS

The uproarious session took place behind the protection of hundreds of paratroopers and gendarmes who brought up tanks, armored cars and trucks and erected barbed wire barricades in fear of the march.

The session was marked by demands for new elections, fierce personal attacks on the premier and Socialist criticism of the government for spending too much money on royal palaces.

SECOND DAY

It was the second day of debate on the government's explosive austerity bill. Eyskens was silent; the debate resumes today.

At least 60 rioters were arrested to bring the total jailed since the beginning of the crisis to more than 200. The government claimed a gradual drift back to work but Socialists claimed the strike front by 300,000 to 800,000 workers remained solid.

Rescuers Rescued —No Matter What

AUCKLAND, N.Z. (CP)—When the stroller in which they were taking their baby brother for an outing ran down a bank into three feet of water, the eight-year-old twin sons of a New Zealand farmer knew what to do. They had learned all about it as Wolf Cubs.

Wet and woebegone, they returned home and explained to their mother: "We tried to give him artificial respiration, mum. But he kept getting up and walking away."

Health Insurance in Canada Liberals' Pledge

OTTAWA (UPI)—The Liberal party last night pledged to introduce federal health insurance in Canada.

The pledge was made in an address by opposition leader Lester B. Pearson and former Liberal associate defense minister Paul Hellyer.

In outlining future party intentions Hellyer (L-Trinity) accused Prime Minister John Diefenbaker of pulling "a fast trick on us by announcing a royal commission" on health insurance.

"But he didn't really pull the wool over the eyes of any one," Hellyer added. "Every one knows that the Liberal party—the party which introduced every social security measure we have federally will be the party that will introduce health insurance too."

Pearson, who introduced Hellyer as the chairman of the Liberal party's massive "rally" to be held here next week, unofficially started the debate on Finance Minister Donald Fleming's "baby budget" brought down in the House of Commons just before Christmas.
